Madison to delay use of new school

By MICK STRANGE
of the Press-Record

Despite earlier reports by contractors that the new Madison middle school would be ready for the opening of the fall school term, there will be a delay of four to five weeks.

School will open as scheduled Tuesday, Aug. 28, with an alternate plan devised by the School Board.

At a special five-hour meeting held Monday evening, the board received a report of the delay, which came to last week Friday at a special meeting of the contractors and sub-contractors.

According to a board spokesman, there is a dispute between the general contractor and sub-contractors in regard to the price of asphalt and roofing. The sub-contractor wants more money than originally quoted due to increases in material costs, according to the spokesman.

There also is a dispute in regard to the carpeting and needed repair work before the carpet can be laid.

The board has decided that there will be school for sixth, seventh and eighth graders for the full day, which will end split shifts at the junior high school.

Until the new school is open there will be three classes of sixth graders attending Louis Baer and three classes of sixth graders going to school in the new section of Dunbar.

Seventh and eighth graders will attend classes at the junior high.

When the new school is ready the students will not have to make any schedule changes, but simply move to the new building under the current plan.

The board rejected the $5,000 bid made by Henry Fletcher, 220 Weaver St., Venice, to purchase the Dunbar school. The board previously rejected a $25,000 bid for the junior high property made by Alexander Tarporff, 1600 Clark Ave.

The board will resume discussion on what to do with the junior high and Dunbar buildings after everyone has been moved into the new middle school.

High school classes are scheduled to start at 8 a.m. and dismiss at 2:30 p.m.; junior high classes begin at 8:30 a.m. and end at 3 p.m.; and elementary children will attend classes from 8:50 a.m. until 3:25 p.m.

The board also reviewed bus schedules which will be published in the Granite City Press-Record next week, a spokesman said.

It was reported that the teachers contract had been approved by the board and the bargaining committee of the American Federation of Teachers Local 763. The union committee is to take the proposed new contract to the teachers for ratification. Details of the contract will not be disclosed until after the teachers have ratified it.

ETHNIC-DAY PREPARATIONS are under way in Madison. The event scheduled Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 24, 25 and 26, at the Madison Memorial Center, Seventh and Lee Streets, Madison, is expected to attract several thousand people. Checking the stands Tuesday, members of the committees are, from left, Mike Macek, Mrs. Julia Voloski, Sam Dymas and Joseph Gudac. The event will feature ethnic foods, dancing, crafts and games for all ages.

County commissioner plan wouldn't work—Hagnauer

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer of Granite City yesterday issued a stinging response to a proposal by County Circuit Clerk Willard V. "Butch" Portell that the form of county government be changed from a county board system to a commissioner system.

"It would be my suggestion," Hagnauer stated, that if the circuit clerk would spend more time worrying about his own administrative capabilities and less time worrying about the structure of the county board, the people of Madison County would be much better off.

Hagnauer's response was directed at an exclusive interview Portell gave the Press-Record (published in the July 26 issue) in which Portell said he felt some county board members are "half-hour-a-week" experts on county government and suggested a great deal of money could be saved if the county were administered by three or five full-time commissioners who would head county departments in addition to acting as the county's administrators.

Portell also criticized the county administration for budget restraints on his office, despite the fact the income to his department in fines and fees has drastically increased.

Hagnauer's response follows. "I deny that most county board members are half-hour weekly members. A majority of the members spend a significant amount of time each week on county business, both in the courthouse and in their individual districts.

"One of the principal advantages of a multi-member county board is that it ensures a much more representative form of government than would the two or three-member commission Portell proposes. Most people in Madison County know who their county board member is and how and where to get in touch with him if they have a problem. "A system like the one which Mr. Portell supports means that all of the Quad-City area, including Nameoki and Chouteau townships, for example, would be represented by one person at the courthouse, instead of the nine that currently represent it.

"Through the leadership of our county board members and the department heads over the last four years, the county has received 11 national awards for the development and implementation of innovative county programs which have both saved the taxpayers money and improved the level of services available," Hagnauer stated.

He also pointed out that in addition to being less representative of the people, the commission form of government does not have all of the advantages claimed by Portell.

"I am surprised that such a long-time advocate of this form of government, as Mr. Portell claims to be, is not aware that appointed department heads still exist under the commission form of government.

"I find it interesting that Mr. Portell, who has had more years of 'experience' at directing an office than any other elected or appointed official, is the only county office-holder who consistently is unable to stay within his budget, in particular, the salary line item.

"Every year during the budget preparation cycle, the county board is berated by Portell because the Finance Committee refuses to give him all the money in his budget request. He claims that the county board does not provide him with enough money to run his office.

Hessler to leave board?

Nameoki Township Attorney Irvin C. Slate Jr., has been requested to study whether Township Trustee Norman A. Hessler is eligible to be elected to the township board of trustees since he has sold his home in the township, the Press-Record has learned.

Sources said Hessler sold his home at 2224 Dawn Place, but he has not made an official announcement. Township Supervisor Harold Davis, when asked about Hessler's move, from the township, commented, "I have heard that, but I do not know for sure. Irvin Slate has been asked by the board and by Mr. Hessler, I believe, to look into whether there is a period of time when he can remain on the board after moving. We are not sure."

Hessler was not in town earlier this week and was unavailable for comment. If Hessler is unable to remain on the board, possible successors the board could consider for replacement include Joseph Boyer of State Park Place, who has been active in township affairs to improve that area, and Mrs. Helen Hawkins, who ran for a board seat in April of 1977 and received a sufficient number of votes to be elected a trustee, but was denied the seat in subsequent court actions on the election challenge.

Mrs. Hawkins said Tuesday she understands some of her supporters are organizing a petition drive to ask the town board of select her to fill the vacancy, if Hessler resigns.

Hessler has been a trustee since 1973 and has chaired most township committees. He is employed by the Granite City Steel division of National Steel Corp. 23 years and has been a Nameoki Township resident 13 years.

Leaving township?

Oh, to look like Linda and sound like Stevie

PART THREE
By CATHY JAMISON
of the Press-Record

The singing debut of C. L. Jamison went fine, in front of three of my friends. I wasn't nearly as nervous as I had thought I would be. I am beginning to get excited; my dream of singing with a band grows close to becoming reality.

My dear friends said I sounded pretty good. Who knows, maybe I will make it without falling apart. Perhaps I will be good enough to make my dream not only a reality, but a success.

I have rehearsed with the band since that night and I grow more confident as Dave Wolf and the guys tell me not to worry. I will be fine. I want to be a lot more than fine, but that remains to be seen.

Part of my dream of course was success. I always envisioned myself singing on that stage with people cheering and putting their hands together for me.

In our dreams we always succeed. Rarely do we think in terms of the reality of it being failure. No one would ever try anything if he thought failure would be the end result. Fear of failure would be one reason why some of us never try to realize secret ambitions.

The practice continues. I want to sound professional, even though everyone will know that what I am doing is only for a story.

I practice my moves. I want to look good on that stage. I don't intend to just stand there and sing. No, there must be movement. Now I have never been what you would call a dancer, too self-conscious. But I want to look like Linda Ronstadt and sound like Stevie Nicks. When I decide to do something, I don't mess around. I want it to be right, perfect. Not much time left; my debut is Friday night.

I'll tell you a secret about this story. It means more to me than just a story. The ultimate joyful conclusion to the whole idea would be if, after the performance, Dave Wolf would ask me to stay on with his band.

Then the dream I have carried for 20 years would indeed be reality. And that, my friends, is really an exciting idea.

I invite you all to come out to Tony's Lounge tomorrow night and witness my dream come true. The show starts at 9 p.m. I'll be looking for you. You have come this far with me and I'd like for you to see me pull it off. I'll do my best not to disappoint you, or myself.

No assessment revision—Cruse

Von Dee Cruse, Granite City Township assessor, plans no further steps to reassess some classes of personal property as real estate, or to seek other means of revenue to replace tax monies lost by the taxing agencies due to the constitutional phase-out of personal property taxes during the current 1979 year, Cruse told the Press-Record Tuesday.

Cruse said he made that decision because of General Assembly approval of House Bill 2569 which, as amended by Governor Thompson's exercise of his amendatory veto, and that same has been forwarded to the governor for his approval.

"I have examined that legislation and particularly have given consideration to Section 18.1 of that legislation which reclassification of property formerly assessed and taxed as personal property under this Act prior to Jan. 1, 1979, shall be classified as real property subject to assessment and taxation under this Act after Jan. 1, 1979."

"I have also learned that this particular provision in the legislation has been described in legislative debate as being a prohibition to the wholesale reclassification of property assessed as personal property prior to Jan. 1, 1979, to the classification of real property after Jan. 1, 1979.

"Under these circumstances, I feel that I cannot make a wholesale reclassification of property formerly assessed as personal property to a real property classification. It is also my understanding that the new legislation adopted as the replacement tax for the personal property tax will create as personal property prior to Jan. 1, 1979, to the classification of real property under the applicable statutes and regulations. This was a measure that I was prepared to take if the Illinois legislature did not develop a replacement tax to produce the revenues for the various taxing districts lost by the elimination of the personal property tax.

"I am now advised that the legislature has approved House Bill 2569, as amended by Governor Thompson's exercise of his amendatory veto, and that same has been forwarded to the governor for his approval.

A 13-year-old boy was arrested Monday and was charged with theft for allegedly stealing a $20 bill from the cash register at Lhane's Confectionery, 2501 E. 24th St. A clerk said the boy purchased a sandwich and paid with a $20 bill, receiving the change. After the youth left, the clerk discovered the $20 was missing from the cash register. Police found him in the 2500 block of East 24th St., and alleged he admitted taking the bill, which he returned.

Registration at GC South

Fred Schuman, assistant principal at Granite City High School South, today announced Monday, Aug. 20, and Tuesday, Aug. 21, all registration dates for the 1979-80 school year.

Freshmen and sophomores will register Aug. 20, with juniors and seniors registering Aug. 21, Schuman said.

The hours are between 7:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. A third date, Wednesday, Aug. 22, has been set aside for open registration, when students unable to register on the previous two days may do so.

Schuman said, however, that students are being urged to report on the preset dates.

New students to the Granite City School District, who are planning to attend South High, are asked to report to the school office prior to the registration dates.

Schuman said the purpose of the earlier dates for newcomers is to permit release forms to be signed, enabling the Granite City district to obtain student records from schools previously attended.

New students may report to the South High office Monday through Friday, between the hours mentioned.

Sell student desks, chairs this Saturday

Student desks and chairs from three recently-closed Granite City schools will be sold Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at McKinley School, Niedringhaus Avenue and Iowa Street.

Frank Kraus, assistant superintendent for the Granite City school district, said there are plenty of desks and chairs left from the recent public sale at the school. The price will be $9 for each desk and chair combination.

"We have had numerous telephone calls from persons who were unable to attend the recent weekday sale at the school, so we have decided to open the sale for three hours Saturday to give people who work days an opportunity to purchase the desks and chairs," Kraus explained.

The desk and chair sets are the only items which will be sold Saturday, he stressed.

Drives into bicyclist

Louis Trgovich, 20, of 3008 S. Sunbury Ave., was injured when he was struck by a hit-and-run motorist on Primrose Avenue north of Richmond Avenue last week.

The victim said he believes he was struck intentionally by the driver. He said he was southbound in the middle of the street when a dark green car, possibly a Pontiac or Oldsmobile four-door car from the early 1970s, came from behind and the four or five occupants called him names.

The auto then pulled to the right of the bicycle and swerved left, striking the bike. Trgovich recalled the driver had long frizzy hair.

Trgovich was taken by a Granite City ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center where he was admitted after X-rays were taken. He suffered pain to his back and chest.

Charge Mehlville man in stabbing

Joseph Ippock, 23, of Mehlville, Mo., has been charged with aggravated battery and battery in an informational document issued Monday by the Madison County state's attorney's office.

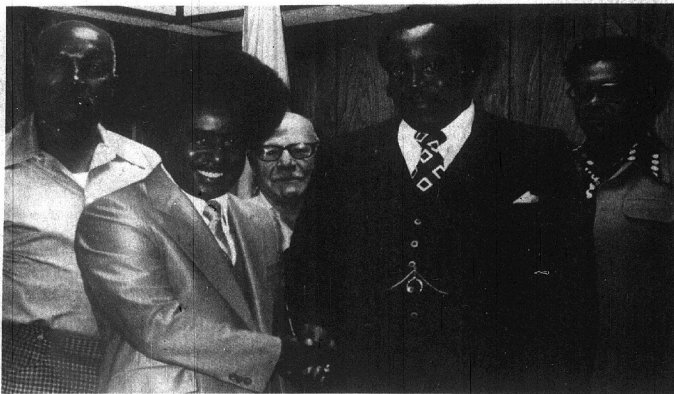

The charges stem from an incident involving William West, 29, of 2225 Edison Ave., who had suffered stab wounds to the neck and chest when found by an Illinois state trooper on 26th Street, near Iowa Street, at 3:30 a.m. Aug. 11.

West was in satisfactory condition Tuesday at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. A short time later, Ippock allegedly was discovered hiding in a rear yard in the 2500 block of Grand Avenue by a Granite City police officer during a search of the area.

West, who was attempting to get out of his car when found, said he was stabbed by a man who had been in the vehicle with him. He could not identify the man by name, but gave police a description.

Ippock appeared before a judge at 4:45 p.m. Monday. Bond was set at $1,500 cash. He was transferred to Madison County Jail at 12:15 a.m. Tuesday by sheriff's deputies.

Rehabilitation Facility week Sept. 23

The Illinois Association of Rehabilitation Facilities has announced that Governor James Thompson has officially proclaimed Sept. 23 through Sept. 29 as "Rehabilitation Facility Week" in Illinois. In addition, mayors and village presidents are issuing similar proclamations in cities where rehabilitation facilities are operating.

Both medical and vocational rehabilitation facilities are represented by the Illinois Association of Rehabilitation Facilities. Medical Rehabilitation Facilities provide evaluation, personal adjustment and continuous medical care to clients on an in-patient and out-patient basis. Their scope of services include skilled rehabilitation nursing, physical therapy, occupational therapy, speech and hearing therapy, job placement, and social, vocational and psychological counseling.

The purpose of such multi-faceted services is to promote optimal personal adjustment in such dimensions as psychological, social, economic, mental and vocational within the confines of the disability.

Vocational Rehabilitation Facilities are professionally dedicated to helping handicapped persons realize their desire to be a productive member of society. Regularly, many such persons, after training or retraining, go into the normal labor force. Others, perhaps more severely handicapped, find gainful and long-term employment within the carefully controlled environment of the rehabilitation facility. In addition to the vocational oriented services, facilities provide evaluation, education, daily living skills, counseling and comprehensive social and recreational programs.

In an attempt to highlight the outstanding services rehabilitation facilities provide, facilities will name a "Rehabilitant of the Year" for their facility. A statewide "Rehabilitant of the Year" will then be named in October from these regional winners.

The goal of helping individuals achieve self-sufficiency is an integral concept of vocational and medical rehabilitation facilities. By setting aside the week of Sept. 23 as "Rehabilitation Facility Week" in Illinois, it is hoped greater public awareness of rehabilitation facilities will serve to alert those individuals who would benefit from the available services, a spokesman said.

SEEK FELONY CHARGE
Granite City police plan to apply today for a felony warrant against a 21-year-old city man who allegedly attempted to cash a stolen $235 check from Consumer Money Order Corp., St. Louis, at the Kroger Food Store, 3601 Nameoki Road, at 6 p.m. Tuesday. The man was arrested in the parking lot of Nameoki Village Shopping Center moments after store officials refused to cash the check.

HUNTING SAFETY is explained Tuesday noon at the YMCA to members of the Granite City Rotary Club by H. S. Skinner, standing, a certified hunting safety instructor who also is manager of proposal engineering and product changes for Winchester-Western Division of Olin. Darryl Slater, club president, is seated at left. Skinner had a slide presentation, in addition to his talk on hunting and weapon safety. (Press-Record Photo by Nick Stegner)

$12,500 burglary

Items valued in excess of $12,500 were stolen from the home of David Wolf, Rural Route One, Box 1319, The burglary was reported during the weekend to the Madison County Sheriff's department.

Numerous pieces of sound equipment were taken along with three color television sets and a 12 inch black and white, video camera and tape recorder, 40 video tapes including Sam Wolf television commercials. Jewelry taken included two diamond rings, three ladies wrist watches, two gold bands, a ruby pendant, plus two men's wrist watches, one with a black band and diamonds.

Items of sound equipment stolen included a reel to reel tape player, Pioneer Stereo system with speakers and an electric synthesizer.

The burglary was committed while the owner was at work. Much of the house was ransacked.

Parents to hear Contact speaker

A representative of Contact-St. Louis, a telephone helpline agency, will speak at a meeting of the Granite City Chapter 470, Parents Without Partners, Wednesday, Aug. 22 at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be held at 234 E. 25th St.

Contact offers listening and caring counsel to troubled individuals, as well as providing a service to hearing-impaired persons. The program began in December 1973. It is affiliated with Contact Telemistries, U.S.A., which includes a network of over 75 centers.

Through a process called active listening, trained volunteers encourage callers to talk out their feelings and frustrations, then try to help the individual, an agency spokesman advised.

Contact is the only telephone agency of its kind that responds to such a broad spectrum of needs 24 hours a day, seven days a week, the spokesman said.

Cleaner meat resulting from new Tarpoff system

"What's this? Showers for beef carcasses? No scrub brushes, no detergents necessary? It's all true," according to the Science and Education Administration of the United States Department of Agriculture.

In tests at Tarpoff Packing Company here, beef carcasses are spray-washed to head off microbial growth that may reduce the value of meat through spoilage and discoloration.

Better steaks and roasts that keep well on the meat counter should be the outcome, a spokesman said. Studies at the University of Missouri-Columbia campus show that five to 10 percent of the meat in the nation's meat distribution system is downgraded because of micro-organisms.

Recognizing the problem, scientists of the Agricultural Research arm of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Science and Education Administration joined University scientists and the Tarpoff Packing Company to see what could be done.

USDA Agricultural Engineer Maynard E. Anderson of Columbia, Mo., and University colleagues designed the system that spray-washes carcasses. It uses less water, energy and labor than is normally used for carcass cleaning—and it does it quicker, the spokesman stated.

The system is designed to alleviate contamination of meat that inevitably occurs during slaughter. Once the carcass is thoroughly cleaned, it is less prone to deterioration by microorganisms through the many processing steps, he added.

In the plant, researchers installed an eight-foot-long cleaning chamber with stainless steel bars and nozzles and three high-pressure pumps. The flow rate of water, speed of the carcass conveyor and the angle and force of spray are adjustable, it was explained. "We've found that each adjustment measurably affects the rate that foreign material is removed," Engineering Technician Harold E. Huff said, adding, "Through the studies, we have taken the guesswork out of washing carcasses. With a given set of adjustments, the unit washes the same on Monday morning as on Friday afternoon, regardless of who is responsible."

Anderson said, "The unit is working fine." Evidently company officials feel the same, because they have invested capital improvements on a conveyor leading to the unit.

Craig Tarpoff, plant manager for the company, said, "We are happy to work with the researchers to develop methods for maintaining a high quality product for the consumer."

During the test phase, inspectors of USDA's Food Safety and Quality Service have checked each carcass for cleanliness after it came through the experimental cleaning unit.

Anderson has applied for a patent that is to be held by the Secretary of Agriculture so that any firm can make royalty-free use of the cleaning unit, the spokesman concluded.

School bus drivers must attend training workshop

Harold E. Briggs, regional superintendent of schools has announced all persons who make application for an Illinois School Bus Driver's permit must attend an initial 12-hour School Bus Driver Training Workshop within 45 school days from date of application. This is a state law, he said.

It is also a mandatory requirement for each person employed as a bus driver in the state of Illinois to attend an annual two-hour refresher workshop after the initial 12-hour course is completed.

Madison County has four certified instructors to conduct these workshops. Madison County is allotted ten 12-hour workshops for the 1979-80 school year, which are funded by the state of Illinois. The schedule of these workshops is set up in order to have one scheduled every month during the school year at various locations throughout the county.

Briggs said he will continue to emphasize the importance of these training workshops for school bus drivers.

It is a state law that each and every person employed as a school bus driver in the state of Illinois must attend these required workshops. The regional superintendent of schools office in Madison County keeps a record of all bus driver permits that are issued and if anyone does not comply with the state regulations, their bus driver's permit is suspended until which time all requirements are met.

A pre-employment interview is conducted with every applicant to determine if he or she is qualified to drive a school bus properly by the district superintendent or person designated by the Board of Education.

Each applicant should be provided sufficient practical "behind-the-wheel" instruction to insure that the applicant has exhibited proficiency in the safe and proper operation of a school bus. This is to be certified to the regional superintendent by the employer prior to the issuance of the bus driver's permit, Briggs said.

Among workshops which will begin Aug. 30 in Alton, an instructional workshop will be held in Granite City at the bus garage, 2201 W. Chain of Rocks Road, on Oct. 2, 4, 9 and 11. Jerry Smith will serve as instructor and the classes will be held from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. on each of those dates.

For additional information, interested persons may contact the Madison County Regional Superintendent's office, 2201 Hillsboro Ave., Edwardsville, or by phoning (618) 692-4530.

but, in fact, the circuit clerk's budget has increased 17 percent over the last four years, from $554,637 to $648,141. This compares with such other county board departments as environmental control and data processing which have had overall decreases in their budget over the same period, despite the fact that they, also, are doing more work, have increased their fee collections and are affected by increased costs," Hagnauer said.

"Additionally, the office of the circuit clerk has the largest employee turnover of any of the elected officials within the county. As chairman of the county board, I have to question the administrative ability of a man with that rate of turnover and inability to remain within his budget year after year.

"The idea that the circuit clerk's budget should increase because he takes in more money is absurd. The fees for court costs, traffic tickets, etc., are set by the state and the dollars taken in can double or triple if fees are increased even though the number of cases processed stays the same or is reduced.

"It would be my suggestion," Hagnauer concluded, "that if the circuit clerk would spend more time worrying about his own administrative capabilities and less time worrying about the structure of the county board, the people of Madison County would be much better off."

Copies of Hagnauer's response were given to members of the county board at yesterday morning's board meeting in Edwardsville and Board Member Herschel E. Beane of Godfrey spoke at the meeting to compliment the chairman on the response, saying he felt Portell was "off base" in his comments.

Hagnauer stated, "This comes up every year from that one office, I feel Mr. Portell has been treated fairly by the county board."

revenues that will be adequate to replace the personal property tax revenues and will be distributed to the various taxing districts and bodies in Granite City Township.

"I, therefore feel that the legislature of Illinois has acted properly and revenues that otherwise would have been lost and that I have no authority or need to find additional sources of revenue as replacement of the personal property tax revenues lost under the constitutional prohibition for the tax year 1979."

Shots fired, man arrested

Marion C. Hughes, 32, of 3001 Nametki Drive, was charged by Madison police with discharging a firearm within the city limits and Granite City police with carrying a dangerous weapon.

"This is all we need to start out," the officer said. A Granite City building firm has agreed to construct the shelter's exterior and local contractor Paul Seebold will complete the building inside.

"Hopefully, construction of the shelter will start next week," Mrs. Willoughby said. A fund raising drive to help construct the shelter and provide necessary equipment still is under way, Mrs. Bridges said.

Anyone wishing to help with the project may call the APA at 877-4594. Donations may be sent to the APA Building Fund, Post Office Box 1311, Granite City, Ill. 62040.

4 hurt on Route 3

Four persons were injured when the autos of John Adams, Alton, Wilson Schwager II, 29, of 53 Sanday Lane, and Thomas Tendick, Cottage Hills, collided at Routes 3 and 203 at 4:40 p.m. Tuesday.

Adams was issued a ticket alleging violation of a stop sign. He was taken by a friend to get medical treatment. State troopers alleged his car was westbound on Route 203 in a light rain when it skidded through the stop sign at Route 3 and into the intersection where it collided with the northbound auto of Schwager, troopers said. Tendick's northbound car then skidded attempting to avoid the accident and slid sideways into the rear of Adams' auto.

Schwager and two passengers in his car were taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center. He was treated for abrasions to his forehead and pain to both his knees and was released after treatment.

Mrs. Mary Schwager, 62, of the same address, suffered cuts to her upper lip, pain to her right shoulder and wrist and discoloration to her lower lip. She was admitted to the intensive care unit.

Mrs. Anna Kientzy, 76, East Alton, also a passenger in Schwager's auto, suffered chest pains and a cut to her lower lip and was admitted to the medical center.

ARREST CYCLIST

Kevin P. Kesterson, 23, of 2526 Jerden Ave., was arrested when Granite City police stopped his motorcycle on Madison Avenue at 2:30 a.m. today and alleged finding a small amount of marijuana and a marijuana pipe in a pocket of his clothing. An officer alleged the cycle was northbound on Madison Avenue at Niedringhaus Avenue without headlights and exceeding the speed limit. It was followed at 50 m.p.h. before it was stopped at 27th Street and Madison Avenue. Kesterson was charged with possession of marijuana, speeding and having an expired driver's license.

TILL-TAPPING

About $19 in cash was stolen from the cash register at Bob James service station, 2814 Nameoki Road, about 12:40 p.m. Tuesday. James said he heard a noise in the front office and investigated to find the cash drawer open. A young boy in the office purchasing a soft drink from the machine was searched and released, since he did not have the money with him.

WOMAN IS ARRESTED

Doris M. Hudson, 37, of 3502 Kirkpatrick Homes, was arrested at home at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday on a warrant from Madison County alleging deceptive practices as chairman of the Edwardsville by sheriff's deputies.

Groundbreaking Friday for new humane shelter

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record

The first tangible step in the realization of a long sought goal will be taken by the Association for Protection of Animals when ground is broken at 10 a.m. Friday for a new humane shelter.

The groundbreaking ceremony will take place at the site of the future shelter, located on Old Alton Road, south of Maryville Road, near Radio Station WGNW. Mrs. Marty Bridges and Mrs. Carol Willoughby, co-presidents of the Quad-City volunteer group, said several elected officials have been invited to participate in the ceremony, including those from Chouteau Township.

Among the guests already accepting are Madison County Board Member Morris Miles, Donald Anthony of the St. Louis Humane Society, and Ward Howland humane director of Lincoln, Ill.

The public also is welcome to attend, Mrs. Bridges said. The APA volunteer group has been in existence for several years.

For a major portion of that time, the organization was permitted to operate a shelter for abused and neglected pets at the Granite City Army Installation.

About two years ago, the shelter at the military installation was closed. Since then, APA members have continued to aid animals in distress on an individual basis, frequently taking pets into their own homes.

Adoption clinics have been held once each month at a small temporary shelter, located between Gasen Drugs and The Fabric Store in Nameoki Village Shopping Center.

Adoptive homes were found for many other animals whose owners no longer able to care for them.

Some time ago, an APA member donated about a half-acre tract of land to the non-profit group, which has spent two years trying to accumulate sufficient funds to construct a building and obtain the necessary permits.

A zoning variance was secured following an on-site hearing and a building permit was issued earlier this month.

Due to limited funds, the shelter to be built at the site will not be a large structure, Mrs. Bridges said.

Initially, the building will have separate areas for dogs and cats, a small office and dispensary and isolation cages.

"This is all we need to start out," the officer said. A Granite City building firm has agreed to construct the shelter's exterior and local contractor Paul Seebold will complete the building inside.

"Hopefully, construction of the shelter will start next week," Mrs. Willoughby said.

A fund raising drive to help construct the shelter and provide necessary equipment still is under way, Mrs. Bridges said.

Anyone wishing to help with the project may call the APA at 877-4594.

Donations may be sent to the APA Building Fund, Post Office Box 1311, Granite City, Ill. 62040.

Investigate stolen auto

Investigators from the Illinois secretary of state's office were asked yesterday to aid Granite City police in investigating a stolen car with an altered title to a West Granite City couple received in trade for another car.

The couple told police at 6:15 p.m. yesterday that they traded their 1970 Cadillac to an East St. Louis man for a 1972 Chrysler New Yorker and the man gave them the title to the Chrysler. When they went to apply for license plates, it was discovered the title belonged to a 1968 Chrysler and had been altered.

Serial numbers on the 1972 Chrysler were checked and indicated the car had been stolen from a Washington Park man. State investigators are attempting to locate the man who purchased the 1968 Chrysler for questioning.

A door to the garage also was broken and about $200 worth of hand tools were removed, the victim said.

Review proposed development programs at public hearing

A review of proposed projects to be funded by community development funds during the 1980-81 fiscal year was hosted by the Madison County Community Development office Tuesday night in the courthouse.

Those present reviewed the original three-year program requests submitted by the various cities, townships and villages in the county to determine if any changes should be made before the applications for the funds are submitted to Washington, D.C.

The 1980-81 fiscal year is the second year of the three-year program for which local requests have been filed.

Proposals discussed for District Two (the Quad-City area), are: Chouteau Township, sewer tap-ons, $137,000; Nameoki Township, Cloverleaf Addition neighborhood strategy area (NSA), $50,000, and city of Venice, senior citizens' center construction, $85,000; Granite City, construction of the overpass $550,000, and Nameoki Township, Eagle Park NSA, $9,500.

The 1980-81 programs under study at this time do not include funds available for housing programs or in the county's discretionary pool, for which governmental units may yet apply.

Applications now are being accepted by the county for $400,000 in housing improvement and rehabilitation funds and $160,000 in discretionary funds.

Sept. 14 is the final date for submitting discretionary applications to the county community development office and a public hearing will be held in the county courthouse at Edwardsville Sept. 25 to review modifications of the 1980-81 fiscal year, including discretionary and housing plans.

Funding of special need projects from the discretionary funds is scheduled for Oct. 9, and a final public hearing on the overall application and housing assistance plan will be held in the courthouse Dec. 4.

The county board will study the application Dec. 19 and it will be submitted to the East West Gateway Coordinating Council and Illinois Clearinghouse by Jan. 11, 1980.

The schedule calls for the overall application to be through the review stages in time to be submitted to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development by Feb. 29, 1980.

Chouteau OKs levies

Tax levies to be collected next summer were approved by the Chouteau Town Board of Trustees Monday night and are to be submitted to the Madison County clerk, who will set the tax rates.

The rates are expected to be slightly below last year's rates, officials said.

The levies (the amounts to be collected through taxation) total $88,400 for town purposes and $10,450 for highway purposes.

A $68,000 levy was approved for the town general fund and the estimated rate (based upon the last assessment of property values in the township) is 20 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. With increasing assessments, the rate is expected to be lower than the estimate. A rate of 19.9 cents was collected this summer from last year's levy, which originally was estimated at 22 cents but dropped as the assessment increased.

The levy for general assistance purposes was set at $20,400, with the rate estimated at six cents. Last year, a rate of eight cents was estimated, but the final figure collected was 7.6 cents.

The board levied $87,450 for general road and bridge purposes and set the rate at the maximum of 16.5 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

The maximum is 12.5 cents for that fund, but the township approved a resolution allowing the greater road tax, which has been approved annually for the past several years. The action will not result in a tax increase, since the 16.5 cent rate has been collected in the past.

The board also approved levies of $15,000 for the building and new equipment fund and $8,000 for municipal retirement. The county clerk will determine the rates after the new assessed valuation is known.

At Monday night's meeting, a $6,000 check was presented to Hartford village officials to erect a fence at a village park. Accepting the check from the township's revenue sharing fund were Hartford Mayor Clarence "Bud" Moore, Village Clerk Evelyn Lewis, and Director of Parks and Recreation Ronald Goode.

The township board voted to go on record as favoring legislation to limit spending of motor fuel taxes from gasoline sales to highway uses only. Proposals to increase the gasoline tax and use part of it for purposes unrelated to highways or roads were opposed by the board.

Workshop at A.O. Smith

St. Elizabeth Medical Center associates Wes Tobin and Walt Wiehart were guest speakers at an A.O. Smith Corporation workshop on alcoholism.

The workshop was designed to help supervisory personnel recognize and assist employees who may have the affliction.

Tobin and Wiehart, both of SEMC's Social Service Department, explained what alcoholism is, how it affects productivity, and how businesses can help employees who are alcoholics.

SEMC offers free medical information to Granite City and surrounding communities by sponsoring a speakers bureau which provides guest speakers to meetings of all kinds. For more information, Quad-Cityans may contact SEMC's Public Relations Department at 796-3167.

GC taxes distributed

By HARRY BARNES
of the Press-Record

A total of $5,354,000 in taxes billed for Granite City Township taxing bodies has been collected and distributed to the agencies, Township Collector Nick Petrillo announced last week.

The early distribution is made possible by making collections locally, rather than depending upon the county treasurer to distribute tax monies at his convenience.

Petrillo said he made a second distribution of taxes last week, which totaled $1,654,000 and which was in addition to an earlier distribution of $3.7 million.

Petrillo said that the first 1 percent penalty on unpaid first installments became effective Aug. 7 and that collections of second installments will continue until Sept. 6. After that date the tax books will be returned to the county treasurer.

Granite City taxpayers were billed this year for payment of $12,791,806 in taxes, including $46,000 in taxes extended against railroad property.

The total of $5,354,000 distributed thus far to the township's seven taxing bodies represents 40 percent of the total billing.

With one month remaining in which Petrillo may make collections locally, taxing agencies may receive up to 70 percent of the total taxes billed before the tax books go back to the county collector.

After the tax books are returned to County Treasurer Michael Henkhaus, all tax payments must be made to the county treasurer who then may make future tax distributions at his discretion.

In previous years when county collectors handled the bulk of the tax collections, tax bodies frequently waited for extended periods between tax distributions.

Petrillo said the most recent tax distribution to local agencies made last week, included $913,384 to Granite City School District 9, $356,896 to the city of Granite City, $134,833 to the county, $81,673 to the Metro-East Sanitary District, $59,442 to the park district, $60,409 to the township and $47,360 to Belleville Area College.

Police stopped the car at West 24th Street and Dewey Avenue a short time later and recovered the pistol. Two Granite City youths in the car were released and the juvenile was arrested. He was released on $35 cash bond at 6:30 p.m. Monday.

County considering slough development

A joint meeting of officials from the Madison County Board's land use committee, the Illinois Division of Water Resource Management, the U.S. Corps of Engineers, the Metro-East Sanitary District, land developers and interested homeowners was held Tuesday morning in Edwardsville to discuss development of flood plain areas.

Mrs. Helen Hawkins, a representative of the Doherty Slough area in Nameoki Township northeast of Granite City, accused county officials of "talking out of both sides of your mouth," and said the county's soil and water conservation district had recommended all building in the Doherty Slough area be halted, while county board representatives continue to grant building permits to home developers.

She said a moratorium has been declared on building within a designated area declared as a flood-hazard area, but developers can have their properties removed from the moratorium area if they can obtain engineering reports showing that the property is not subject to flooding.

"We have made no progress in protecting people from having homes built on land with water pressure problems, high groundwater and runoff problems," she stated, noting there is nearly a 20-foot drop in altitude from Granite City to Doherty Slough and the water from a large area ponds in the slough, damaging homes.

Also in attendance were H. Jack Frandsen and Michael Hawkins from the county land use committee, County Zoning and Building Administrator Paul Hawkins, County Board Chairman Nelson Hagmann and his administrative assistant Mary Kane.

Land use committee members indicated the state and federal officials had been invited to the meeting to help review flood plain regulations and the possible problems if building continues in ponding areas.

Possible loss of flood insurance and removal from other federal and state-supported programs were among the results which are possible if the county does not carefully study all building proposals in areas such as Doherty Slough, it was indicated.

Land use committee members indicated they will investigate recent requests for development in the slough area, including several lots on Pine Street, and would issue permits if it can be shown the development of the lots will not have an adverse effect on groundwater in the area.

Divorce effects on children

By CATHERINE R. MAUCK
Madison County Extension
Adviser, Home Economics

Divorce itself probably has few or no lasting effects upon children. Researchers found no differences in personality characteristics when comparing children from (1) unbroken families, (2) broken families headed by mother, (3) mother and stepfather families, (4) father and stepmother families, and (5) families where both spouses had divorced and remarried.

But circumstances accompanying divorce, such as poverty, may have a significant effect upon the children of a divorced couple. Divorce often means a fatherless family will have to live on a much lower income, overcome practices of economic discrimination against women, and adjust to the environment of a poorer lifestyle and neighborhood.

Conflict between parents also seems to influence children. Conflict seems to harm children both in unhappy two-parent families and in one-parent families with repeated conflicts between ex-spouses. Delinquent children and those with behavior problems may be reflecting repeated parental conflicts and lack of family closeness. Labeling one-parent, divorced families as "wrong" leads some children to feel shame and others to lie about the absent parent. But little evidence indicates this same to be lasting.

Instead, a study of children of divorced parents reveals that about 70 percent of the children who were studied showed no signs of psychological decline a year after the divorce. And the mental health of adults who were studied was more dependent upon their current situations than upon childhood experiences such as the divorce of their parents.

Manpower cutoff may hamper Nameoki work

By GARY SCHNEIDER of the Press-Record

Despite a letter from the Madison County Manpower office that it will not fill many of the jobs now staffed by Manpower employees when their eligibility period ends Sept. 28, Nameoki Township Supervisor Harold Davis has sent applications to the county asking for replacements for employees scheduled to be terminated on that date.

"We stand to lose three laborers, one secretary and our rabies control officer when Manpower expires," Davis said, adding, "I do not know what we are going to do. I am just going to apply for replacements, although the letter indicates the county will not replace them."

He said the loss of the three laborers would end or seriously impair the township's mosquito abatement program, the environmental cleanup program, the cleaning of ditches and other important programs.

What if they are not replaced, he was asked. "I guess we will just have to cross that bridge when we come to it," the supervisor said.

In other business, the board discussed including $10,000 in the revenue sharing budget for sidewalks.

It was recommended the finance committee budget $5,000 for sidewalks along Stratford Lane to aid children going to Parkview School and $5,000 for sidewalks on the west side of Maryville Road from Maryville School to near Bob Barton Realty to serve both Maryville School and Granite City High School North students.

Also recommended is $3,000 to improve the unsightly condition of the Shilene Drive holding ponds, including landscaping work.

Supervisor Davis was given the authority to negotiate with the highway commissioner on the Stratford Lane and holding pond improvements and with the state on the Maryville Road improvements so the necessary agreements can be completed before the funds are available.

Highway Commissioner Frank Mehelic also suggested that funds be budgeted for drainage and street lights in the Miracle Manor area.

A discussion on the value of belonging to the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Area Planning Commission (SIMARPC) was held and Mrs. Helen Hawkins, a Democratic precinct committeeman, said she feels the township is "wasting tax dollars" by paying the annual dues for the planning organization.

Davis said he is not satisfied with the number of grant applications being submitted on behalf of the township to state and federal funding bodies, but believes SIMARPC is the recognized clearing house through which such applications should be submitted.

"You would almost need an expert to work on these various federal and state programs and the township cannot afford this," Davis said.

Davis was given the authority to call for a meeting of the township's community development citizens' advisory committee to consider preparing an application for discretionary funds from the county's 1980-81 fiscal year grant.

The supervisor said the committee will be asked to consider appropriating the money to aid the handicapped and low income residents of the township meet the cost of sewer hook-ups.

Bills approved for payment totaled $3,372 from the town fund, $1,316 from revenue sharing, $6,101 from the road and bridge fund, $4,282 from general assistance and $3,628 from the municipal retirement fund.

Town Clerk Douglas Teator presented Supervisor Davis with a plaque of appreciation from the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce for his aid in the areawide community cleanup project held during 1979.

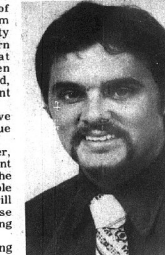

Davis was given a round of applause by the township officials and those in the audience and said he felt Mehelic should share in the honor, since Mehelic's department supplied the trucks for the cleanup.

"It will be a learning experience," he said.

Chinch bugs can ruin lawn

By WYANNE B. SIEFERT Area Horticulture Adviser

Chinch bugs are a disaster when they get going in a zoysia grass lawn. Symptoms are the appearance of light green areas that gradually enlarge while the centers turn yellow or light brown.

Chinch bugs are about 1-4 of an inch long with a black body. When thousands of little insects are sucking the sap out of your grass, it finally begins to die. When those plants stop growing and begin to dry up, this army moves away from the center towards healthy (tasty) plants around the outside. If you don't take action, your whole lawn can be destroyed in one summer.

Control is relatively simple if you use Dursban or Aspon. If you apply either of these products as granules, promptly water the treated area in order to carry the chemical down to the insects. If you are spraying on the insecticide, wet the area first, then apply the insecticide and water it in. One application should be adequate.

If you are in the midst of a chinch bug disaster, treat promptly and re-plant the dead spots. Apply a lawn fertilizer at 1/2 the recommended rate. Water regularly until the plugs show signs of good growth. Next year, fertilize the damaged area as soon as the zoysia greens up. If chinch appears to be a problem, plan to detatch in June.

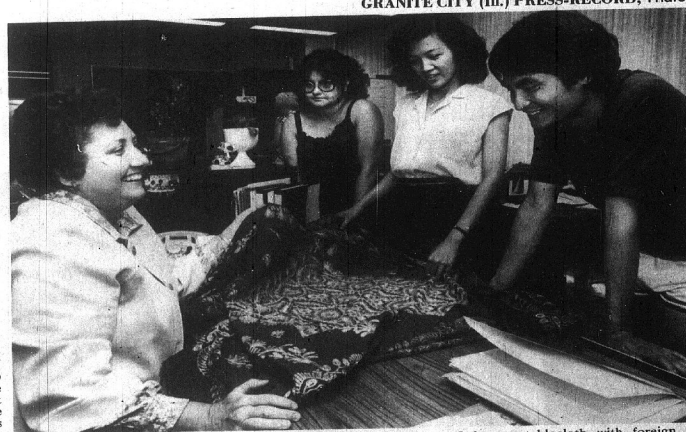

Realty courses being offered

Two courses of interest to those in the real estate and property management fields are being offered during September and October.

A course in the management of condominiums, offered by the Institute of Real Estate Management, will be offered Oct. 6 and 7 at the Continental Plaza Hotel in Chicago. Tuition is $115, including all course materials. A catalog containing a registration form may be obtained by writing the Institute of Real Estate Management, 430 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill., 60611.

Man faces four charges

Carlton J. Turner, 32, of 1714 Chestnut St., faces state charges of aggravated assault and resisting arrest and city charges of disorderly conduct and assault after an incident at his home early this week.

He allegedly yelled obscenities at a woman who owns the building and refused to be quiet when ordered to do so by police. When told he was under arrest, he allegedly struck Patrolman Jeff Parkes's face with a fist. Force was then used to handcuff Turner and arrest him, officers reported.

He was released after posting $274 cash bond nearly six hours after the arrest.

FIND STOLEN TRUCK

The pickup truck of Harold Humphreys, 2556 Lynch Ave., stolen from his home July 26, was recovered early this week in Collinsville. The vehicle had been stripped of many of its parts, the owner was told.

SIUE art collection now worth $6 million

As early as 1959, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville began accumulating works of art so that today the institution of higher education now owns a variety of collections valued at $6 million.

"The original concept was that the Edwardsville campus would function as a museum without walls with distinguished works of art gracing the hallways and offices of the buildings on the newly-designed campus," David Huntley, director of the Office of Cultural Arts and University Museums, said.

To share its acquisitions with the community, SIUE will present an exposition of these varied collections during the fall, entitled "The University Collects." The exposition will run from Sept. 25 through Oct. 19.

Opening with a reception in the Opapi Gallery of the University Center, the exposition will include exhibits in Lovejoy Library, the Communications Building and Classroom Buildings I and II and will feature some of the best examples of art works and artifacts from each of its collections.

At the same time, the University will celebrate the grand opening of its new Anthropology Teaching Museum in Room 0407 of the Peck Classroom Building. The collections to be represented in the exposition will include:

—The University Drawing Collection, which was assembled by Catherine Kuh, renowned art critic and the first art consultant to the University. The collection contains distinguished works by well-known artists from the Renaissance to the present.

—The Louis Henri Sullivan Architectural Ornament Collection. This collection was assembled for the University with the assistance of the late Richard Nickel, a young architectural historian and photographer, who lost his life while attempting to photograph fragments of Sullivan ornamentation from the old Chicago Stock Exchange.

The University's "Sullivan Walk," the walk will begin on the second floor of the Library, where a great deal of the ornamentation is now on permanent display, and continue onto the mall and the walkways leading to Classroom Buildings II and III. It will then proceed onto the first floor of Building II, up the stairwell and across the bridge connecting the two buildings. From there, the walk will flow down the stairs of Building III, culminating with a display on the ground floor of that building.

—The Musical Instrument Collection, which contains examples of baroque as well as African and other primitive instruments, will feature the newly-restored 18th Century harpsichord.

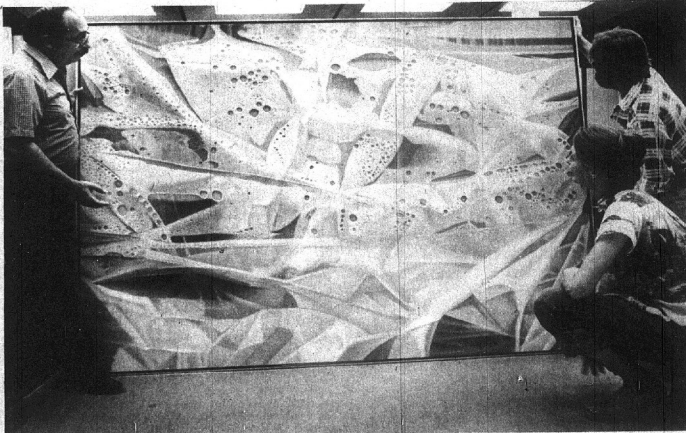

—The Stroup Korean Pottery Collection. A gift of Col. and Mrs. Dan Stroup, the collection contains some 226 pieces of Korean pottery with fine examples from virtually all of the Korean dynasties.

—The Nause and Graf Print Collection. A gift from Dr. and Mrs. Christopher A. Graf and Dr. and Mrs. Frederick P. Nause of Sheboygan, Wis., the extensive collection contains works by contemporary American graphic artists and will be presented in the small gallery outside the Library auditorium.

—The Nelson-Wagner Print Collection, another print group, features works by visiting artists to the SIUE campus that have been produced in the Nelson-Wagner lithography workshop located at the Wagner Complex on campus. This studio was established in 1975 through a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

—The MFA (Master of Fine Arts) Collection, another collection of locally-produced art, contains one work by each of the 185 artists who have received the master of fine arts degree at SIUE. Many of these alumni have established reputable names for themselves and-or accepted positions in leading universities and colleges throughout the world.

—The Proctor Puppet Collection, which includes an exquisite example of a Japanese bunraku marionette, along with a 40-pound puppet dressed in

THE UNIVERSITY COLLECTS. David Huntley (left), director of the Office of Cultural Arts and University Museums at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, Susan Thomas of Edwardsville, and Scott Minick of Edwardsville, admire one of the University's latest art acquisitions. The acrylic on canvas painting by Jay Paul Bell was purchased through a grant from medieval armor. The collection was a gift of Mrs. Ellen Proctor, mother of Mini Zaner, who toured mid-America for 30 years with the famous Proctor puppets.

—The Folklore Archive. The archive houses the University's collection of American quilts that have been assembled over the years by John Oldani, associate professor of English language and literature.

—The Slavic Imprint Collection, currently housed in the Tosovsky Center. Donated to the University by the late Ernest E. Tosovsky Sr., and other members of the Slavic and East European Friends, the collection contains examples of elaborately decorated charter certificates used by many ethnic societies and lodges, mounted in ornate frames.

—The John M. Olin Collection, consisting of works of art which formerly hung in the Olin mansion. This collection includes a suite of Carrier and Ives prints detailing the history and nature of steamboating on the Mississippi River, as well as many other prints and paintings.

—The Permanent Collection. By far, the University's most prestigious acquisition, the permanent collection contains many works which have not previously been on public display. It includes a wide variety of styles, media, ranging from the famous "Smiling Lincoln" portrait to Rodin's "Walking Man" in Lovejoy library. Many of the world's leading artists are represented in this collection, including Rembrandt, Goya, Matisse, Miro, Calder, Naguchi, Ernst and others. Amassed over the years through purchase funds, grants and gifts, the permanent collection contains a number of works presented to the University by Arnold Maremont, a Chicago industrialist and former member of the SIU Board of Trustees, as well as recent acquisitions purchased through grants from the Illinois Arts Council.

Many of the works from the collection will be permanently located around campus, making up a portion of an "Art Walking Tour." Designed to provide members of the campus community and visitors with a pleasant tour, the walking tour will guide people through the campus, past pieces of permanently displayed works, Huntley said. A catalogue compiled for "The University Collects" exposition will include a map of the tour, beginning at the University Center and progressing through each building.

At the Anthropology Teaching Museum, the public can view ceremonial art, games, tools, weapons and other implements and utensils, as well as costumes and other relics from prehistoric and primitive societies of the Americas.

Designed primarily for the use of students and anthropological faculty as a supplemental resource to the classroom, the museum is the result of vision and long hours of physical labor of Ted Frisbie and his students, Huntley said. As a teaching facility, the museum will provide study from a broad range of anthropology specimens from bone fragments to counting devices and musical instruments.

Irwin completes course

Randall Irwin, Irwin Chapel for Funerals of Granite City, has received a certificate as an enucleation technician from the University of Illinois medical school.

Irwin, a mortician, now is qualified to enucleate, or remove, eyes from deceased persons who have signed eye donor pledges during their lifetime.

Eyes that are enucleated are used for corneal transplants to help other people see, or are used for medical research. Eyes have to be removed very soon after death to preserve the tissue. After eyes are removed, they are transported to eye banks for use.

The course, given by the University's Department of Ophthalmology in Chicago, was sponsored by the Lions of Illinois Foundation, in cooperation with the Illinois Eye Bank, operated by the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

The course was taken by 29 people throughout the state. The cost of the course was underwritten by local Lions Clubs.

The course chairman was Dr. Maurice Rabb, medical director and associate Professor of Ophthalmology, Abraham Lincoln School of Medicine, University of Illinois College of Medicine.

The Lions have been involved in help to the blind and in support for eye research for many years.

Part of this involvement is the Lions of Illinois Eye Donor Registry, supported by funds generated by Candy Day, the statewide fund-raiser scheduled this year for Friday, Oct. 12.

Under the registry, Lions obtain pledge cards from people who want to donate their eyes for transplants or research upon their death. The Lions also are involved in transporting the needed eye tissue to eye banks as the tissue becomes available. In some areas of the state, qualified enucleation technicians are in short supply. The Enucleation Course will alleviate this situation.

Recover loot from burglary

Several items stolen during a burglary at the home of Marilyn Hurd, 2226 Edwards St., were recovered in the alley near the rear of her home Thursday.

The victim said that between 8:30 and 9:15 p.m. Thursday, someone removed a screen from a window and opened the window to gain entry. A stereo and speakers, a calculator in a pillow case and a box of Avon products taken from the room were all recovered in the alley.

Nothing is known missing. A witness reported four young women with long blond hair and a tall skinny man with long hair, a beard and a mustache ran west on Edwards Street a short time before the burglary was discovered.

BREAK INTO TRUCK
A lead block weighing about 25 pounds was stolen from a tractor-trailer belonging to Regency Transport and parked at 17th Street and Grand Avenue between 2 p.m. and 11:15 p.m. Monday. The seal to the trailer door was cut to open the door. The lead block was found on the ground near the trailer. There were signs that attempts to remove other blocks from bundles in the truck were unsuccessful.

READING FOR KNOWLEDGE AND PLEASURE. Robert Duncan, professor of English language and literature will be the moderator for the upcoming radio program, "Book Fare." Beginning this fall, "Book Fare" is scheduled to be aired over WSIE-FM (88.7), campus radio station, on Thursdays at 9 a.m. for the benefit of senior citizens, disabled listeners, and others who may have difficulty reading.

Books to be read on radio

Reading for pleasure and entertainment is still a popular pastime for many people, particularly among those whose mobility may be limited because of age or disability.

Beginning this fall, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will offer programming aimed at enhancing the reading experience of people who are homebound because of weather severity, the gasoline shortage, or other problems.

Aired over campus radio station WSIE-FM (88.7) Thursdays at 9 a.m., "Book Fare" will explore the pleasure of novel reading, Robert Duncan, professor of English language and literature at SIUE, will be the moderator.

Knowledgeable guests from both on and off campus will be on hand to offer comments on the books being discussed.

Best-sellers and the classics will be examined, as well as science fiction offerings, Gothic novels, and books on such topical themes as the women's liberation movement and politics.

Duncan pointed out that there have been a number of novels written lately on the Washington, D.C. scene, and if the listening audience is interested, some of them might be included in the public service program.

The choice of books to be reviewed and analyzed will depend largely on the audience's wishes, he said. Members of the community are invited to contact the SIUE department of English language and literature to suggest novels or types of novels that might be utilized on the program, Duncan said.

"Book Fare" is scheduled to begin the first week in October.

FIRE DAMAGES CAR

Fire caused an estimated $100 damage to the auto of Letha Huff, 2645 Delmar Ave., at Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center last week. A short-circuit in the electrical wiring is suspected as the cause of the fire, which was out when firemen arrived.

New associate pastor at Mt. Zion

The Rev. Donald Clark, pastor of Mount Zion General Baptist Church, is announcing the expansion of the church staff with the addition of the Rev. Dale Price, his wife, Rose Ann, and son, Jared.

Rev. Price has served in pastorates in Indiana and Illinois.

The family came here from the Indianapolis area and began their duties Aug. 1 at Mount Zion.

Rev. Price will serve as Mount Zion's associate pastor and principal of Gateway Christian Academy. His wife will become the school's supervisor.

He is a graduate of Oakland City College in Indiana, where he received a degree in Pastoral Ministry.

Rev. Price holds a master's degree in Religious Education and currently is beginning work toward his doctorate in Ministry.

Mrs. Price was active in one of the denomination's leading missionary programs while in Indiana.

Both recently completed the Accelerated Christian Education (ACE) training program in Rochelle, Ill.

Rev. Price is attending a principal's training course this week at the ACE headquarters in Garland, Tex.

Gateway Christian Academy is located at Mount Zion General Baptist Church, 2067 Benton St.

BAC offers lower tuition for seniors

Anyone over age 60 who lives in the Belleville Area College district may register for classes at the college or in extension centers throughout the district for $2 per credit hour. The $2 per credit charge applies to all courses, college credit or general studies and amounts to $4 or $6 for most courses.

Regular tuition at BAC is $14 per credit hour. The reduced rate for people over 60 was approved at the July Board of Trustees meeting. The rate is applicable only after the regular registration period has ended and includes all courses where there is still room available.

To take advantage of the reduced rate this fall, residents must have been born on or before Aug. 31, 1919, and should be ready to show proof of birthdate at the time of registration.

Students may register at the reduced rate on or after Aug. 20 either in the registrar's office at the main campus, 2500 Carlyle Road, Belleville, or in class the first night in the extension centers.

Older residents may register at any time, if they choose to pay the full tuition. The reduced rate is available only for those courses that have filled enough to be offered but still have room for other students.

A large number of sections in freshman composition have also been scheduled at a variety of times throughout the day for the convenience of other students.

Mrs. Richardson said, along with a generous sprinkling of courses in writing for those interested in creative, fiction, poetry, and research report writing.

Additional information concerning any of the composition courses, as well as other offerings by the department of English language and literature, may be obtained by telephoning 1-492-2060.

The Lighter Side

By Cathey Jamison
Press-Record Feature Editor

Why are my friends evasive?

Did you ever notice how busy people are? I've been noticing that a lot lately.

I have invited my friends Linda and Karen over to my house many times of late. Both have much to do these days. I have this awful feeling that I'm doing something wrong.

Maybe it's my breath.

Perhaps they fear coming into my house, since everyone who enters there eventually gets written about. What can I say, girls, that is what I do.

Karen is my gadabout friend. Hang out with all of the very best people. Maybe it's my lack of class that keeps her from visiting my humble, ramshackle abode. Guess I'll have to remodel. She said that the next time I write about her she will drown me in her new swimming pool.

Linda spends so much time with her husband that I'm beginning to wonder about her. When she does come to my house, she brings him along. Whoever heard of a girl talk with a husband about?

I get the feeling that they are both avoiding me. Must be my breath. They say even your best friends won't tell you.

I really am at a loss as to why I can't get any action from my two friends. I mean after all, I am a great hostess. I always point to the fridge and tell them to help themselves. I even see to it that there are clean paper cups around for drinks. I just don't understand all of this.

It HAS to be my breath.

After the third rejection, I began to take a good look at myself. I appear to me to be just about perfect. At least I never invite them to stay to supper, for which they should both be grateful.

I called Linda the other day. "Come on over and help me pick out a blouse for this special deal," I said.

"Sorry," says she, "I am having supper with my in-laws."

INLAWS?? Since when is having supper with one's in-laws any fun? She hates me. She hates me because of my breath. She LIKES her in-laws. The girl has problems.

And Karen, well, just because the builders are coming to put in her new pool, the one she intends to drown me in, is no reason to ignore a good friend's pleadings. She hates me too. I think I'll invest in a good mouth wash.

Senior off to Australia

Mike McLean, a student at Granite City High School South, will spend his senior year in Doncaster, Australia, a suburb of Melbourne with a population of 85,000.

McLean, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike McLean, 3208 Wayne Ave., became interested in the Rotary-sponsored trip when he heard an announcement at school last year. He was the only one from this area who expressed interest in the exchange program, and after extensive interviews, was chosen to make the trip. He is to leave Aug. 24 and will not return until July of next year. "I'll miss everybody, but I'm sure I'll make plenty of new friends," said McLean. "My father was in the service and we always had to travel. We've been here a long time, so it's time for a change," he commented.

McLean will stay with three host families for a period of four months each. A lawyer and his wife are the first hosts for McLean. "It will be an adventure to me, but I'm looking forward to it," he said.

McLean has talked with some girls from Australia who are in the United States on the same exchange program. According to them, school is much more difficult in Australia. Schools there have three terms rather than the two-semester system here. The school terms in Australia begin in the end of January and run through the end of December, with two to three weeks of vacation between each term.

"I've always wanted to go to Australia," said McLean. His parents feel the trip will be good experience for him, but "my mom already misses me," said McLean.

Peter M. Bloomsburg has joined the Illinois Department of Public Aid as medical assistance program administrator. It was announced by Public Aid Director Arthur F. Quern.

Quern said, "Bloomsburg's energy, experience and managerial talent should contribute significantly to the Department's efforts in the medical assistance program."

Prior to accepting his new position, Bloomsburg was assistant commissioner for medical assistance with the Massachusetts Department of Public Welfare. Highlights of his stay in Massachusetts included the development of an adult day health program, a successful Medicaid cost control strategy and an audit program to combat Medicaid fraud and abuse.

He also has been employed with the Massachusetts Executive Office of Administration and Finance and Index Systems, Inc. He holds masters and bachelors degrees from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and has also studied law.

Bloomsburg and his wife, Terry, now reside in Springfield. They are former residents of Newton, Massachusetts.

John 10:28 - "And I give unto them eternal life, and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand."

These are the blessed and comforting words of the Saviour Jesus Christ. He is referring to His followers whom He calls His "sheep." These are powerful words to encourage and strengthen God's people. I give them eternal life! He gives and no man can take it from you. He gives eternal life. He believeth in Him shall not perish but have everlasting life.

We are in His hand and no man can pluck us out. We may suffer tribulations and persecutions, but He will even lay down our lives for His sake; but no man can take us from Him! What a blessed thought.

He gives. Will you receive? Today.

Her bouquet of blue and white silk carnations, white daisies and blue forget-me-nots trailed satin streamers.

The matron of honor, Mrs. David Rice, wore a halter gown of light green qiana with a matching floral cape. She carried an arrangement of silk carnations, daisies and forget-me-nots.

Bridesmaids Judy Lane,

Mrs. Michael Fuchs, Judy Carroll and Mrs. Ed Closson wore identical gowns in peach, pink, blue and yellow. Each held a bouquet of silk flowers in complementary hues.

Beth McBride, a niece of the groom, was flower girl. Ring bearer was Travis DeMott, a nephew of the bride.

The groom chose Michael Fuchs as best man. Groomsmen were Jeff DeMott, a brother of the bride, Wayne Phelps, John Whittenburg and David Rice. Garry Capocchi and Tom Huebner served as ushers.

Kim and Laura McBride, nieces of the groom, were candlelighters.

A reception was held at St. Mary's Engelbert Hall in Madison. The rehearsal dinner took place at Tony's Restaurant.

The bride is employed as a business education teacher at Granite City High School South.

Her husband is assistant manager at National Food Store in Granite City.

Kehoe looks hopefully on season

By KEVIN ALLEN
of the Press-Record
GRANITE CITY — Bob Kehoe began preparing his Granite City North soccer team for the rapidly approaching 1979 season yesterday. But if it was up to him he would have been practicing weeks ago.

Kehoe feels the Illinois High School Association's rule about beginning pre-season practices on August 15 is too restrictive.

His rationale for the objection is based on concern for his players. "We just don't have long enough to get the kids into shape," Kehoe said. "If you look at a training book, by the numbers it says that the first three or four weeks of training should be devoted to conditioning."

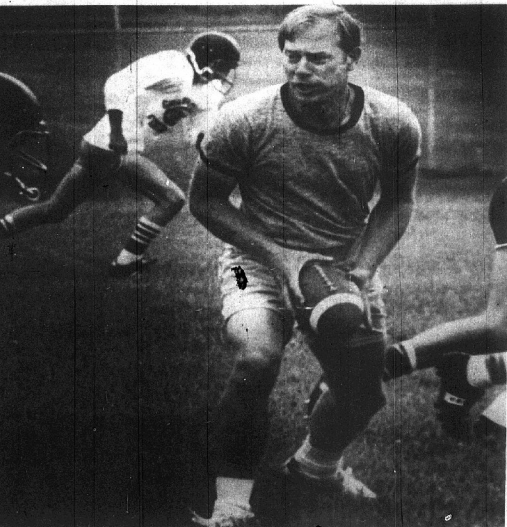

"The kids are the ones who suffer. When you have to step into a game and play for 80 minutes and give your utmost in a contact sport with little protection you're going to have to run and run. If you're not in shape you won't be able to," Kehoe said.

So to avoid problems that could arise from what Kehoe sees as too little preparation time, the Steelers will begin the pre-season practicing twice daily. Kehoe said he is even contemplating increasing the sessions to three times a day.

Obviously, the beginning of Kehoe's training sessions will be concerned with the conditioning of his athletes. He said the multiple-session days should last about three weeks, depending on how well his players have prepared during the summer.

"All athletes aren't the same as the next guy," Kehoe said. "Some players go on to other sports as soon as soccer season is over. I'm not saying that other sports are bad, but some players are strictly soccer players and those tend to do the ball work and the running all summer, while others may get behind."

Kehoe said one of his prime considerations at the start of the practices will be sorting those players who are prepared from those who aren't.

Wyrostek wants to see changes in '79

By KEVIN ALLEN
of the Press-Record
GRANITE CITY — Tom Wyrostek has wiped the X's and O's from the chalk board. He has begun a new year as head coach of the Granite City North Steeler football team with what is called a clean slate.

Full practices began yesterday for the Steelers. At 8 a.m. and again at 3:30 p.m. the players who hope to be those that make up the '79 Steeler squad were drilled, tested and generally put through the paces.

The Steelers and Wyrostek have some rebounding to do. Last season the team finished a most forgettable 0-10 campaign.

So, that's the point of the pre-season drilling — to forget, and then move on. "We've got to work on techniques and fundamentals," Wyrostek said. "We had a lot of problems last year, but that doesn't mean we're going to change the way we go about things. We've had a lot of success with this program in the past."

Wyrostek said the early part of the pre-season will be devoted to basic conditioning. This will be the time of the infamous two-day workouts.

"How long we keep that up is going to depend on how fast the squad comes around," he said. "If they come in shape we can go on to more advanced things more quickly."

Wyrostek said he has no definite timetable set up for his pre-season practices. He will go in with an overall framework and progress at the pace the players reaction dictates.

"If you settle on things in advance, there's a chance you'll pass some people by. So we take it as it comes," Wyrostek said.

Wyrostek said each training period was different from year to year. "You don't know what to really expect until you get into it," he said. "Sometimes it goes quickly and you can concentrate on more advanced things earlier. Sometimes 10 weeks isn't enough."

Hopefully, Wyrostek and the group of players who will eventually form the Steelers' team can progress at a faster pace this year.

Wyrostek said he is encouraged by the fact that many of the same players who went through North's poor season last year have returned with a year of experience behind them.

"More experience is definitely an advantage," Wyrostek said. "Quite a few of the starters from last year who played well are back."

"But nobody has a job won," Wyrostek was quick to add. "We're just hoping that the talent returning will come back with a good attitude and ready to work hard."

If that is the case, Wyrostek thinks the Steelers can fill the early-season empty slate with a record of success.

"There's a lot of disappointment in this game and a lot of joy," he said. "But if you're going to win some of that has to happen."

NEW OB? Granite City North assistant football coach Bob Stegmeyer gets set to hand off to a running back Wednesday morning during his team's first practice of the season. Yesterday was the first day for football and soccer practices at high school across Illinois as allowed by the Illinois High School Association.

Cougars to kick off season in 'exhibition' tournament

EDWARDSVILLE — The avid soccer fans who follow the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Cougars through the thick and thin will get an opportunity to see their favorites in action this Sunday, Aug. 19.

The Cougar kickers will take part in the annual Our Lady of Loretta Church soccer tournament. Play is scheduled for Red and Bellefontaine Road, North County (off Interstate 270). Their foe will be the national junior college powerhouse, Meramec Community College, coached by ex-SIU assistant coach, Pat McBride. Kickoff time is set for 5 p.m.

The game will be an exhibition, but when soccer teams meet there is no such thing as a game which doesn't count. For example, this past weekend, the mighty St. Louis University Billie were defeated by Florissant Valley Community College, 2-0.

Rick Benben, who has been SIUE head coach Bob Guelker's assistant for five seasons, will be calling the plays for the Cougars. Guelker entered the hospital Tuesday for surgery.

Church pairings are released

GRANITE CITY — Pairings for the annual Midwest Church Softball Church Regional have been released.

The tournament will be held in Granite City this weekend, with games beginning tomorrow (Friday) and continuing through Sunday. Games will be played at Worthen and West Granite Parks.

In the first round, City Temple of Granite City (acting as the host team) will play First church of the Nazarene of Indianapolis (the Indianapolis winner); Lafayette Nazarene (the Lexington, Ky. winner) will face St. Mary of Alton (the Illinois state champion); Wood River Baptist (the Illinois runner-up) will play Garrett Baptist of Manchester, Ky. (the defending regional champion); the Louisville winner will face the Indiana winner; and St. Elizabeth's of Howard, Ohio (the Cincinnati winner) will face Revival Tabernacle (the Lexington, Ky. winner). The winners and runners-up from Louisville and Indiana were not available at press time.

Schroeder picks Arizona St.

By DOUG IRVIN

GRANITE CITY — Averaging 38 strokes on an 18-hole golf course — GC South High School's best since Don Gresco's 37.8 six years ago — is Herman "Dutch" Schroeder. Dutch is a '79 graduate of South.

"Schroeder played high school varsity golf for three years where he was the leader of the team. He lettered each year and qualified for the Sectional Tourney his junior and senior years. The 18-year-old athlete was selected as All-Area his senior year. And he plans to attend Arizona State University in Tempe. "I'm going to ASU because it's an excellent golf school," said Schroeder. "They play all year round except for a period around December and January."

"Varsity could be tough to make, but the coach keeps about ten freshmen for the future," he added. Only 15 students make the varsity squad and several freshmen are kept to build into varsity material. ASU will have a new golf coach this year.

I-C playoffs next for MAC

By TOM SCHOCKER
for the Press-Record
MITCHELL — Post-season. What a magical time of the year. Every coach hopes that his team will have made it that far. Every player dreams of being in the playoffs.

For the Mitchell Athletic Club and Head Coach Ken Crawford a long hard battle has been won. The Inter-City playoffs will include Mitchell — barely.

Upon completing the regular season last Sunday, Mitchell concluded with a 10-16 record. Record-wise it earned a place in the upcoming playoffs to be played Sunday.

In the Inter-City League, with only six clubs, there is four playoff spots. The Music Room Vans have a lid on the top spot posting a 25-3 mark. Collinsville, at 17-9 clinched second place and Maryville grabbed third at 13-11. The fourth position was decided with Mitchell's double win over Wood River, but it almost wasn't.

Mitchell was battling with East Alton for that fourth spot. East Alton dropped a pair to Music Room 4-0 and 12-3, giving them a final record of 8-16. With a 26-game schedule that is two games short. East Alton still had a rain-out doubleheader to make up. If they would win those games they would be tied with Mitchell. Will they be able to play those games, though?

"According to the Inter-City rules, you cannot make up any games after the regular season," said Dan Sheehan, president of the Inter-City League. "The only case to make up those games is if a rain-out occurs on the last day of the regular season." East Alton's rain-out took place July 29 with Maryville.

Mitchell has finally made it and have a tough road ahead of it. It must play first place Music Room Vans at the Vans home field in the opening round Sunday. Second place Collinsville will tangle with Maryville at Collinsville Sunday.

Ah yes, the first day

GRANITE CITY—Ah yes. The first day of football practice. And soccer practice. In towns all over Illinois, Wednesday marked the first day of high school practices as allowed by the Illinois High School Association.

And Granite City was no exception. At South and North high schools in Granite, the Warrior grid and soccer squads got things underway with conditioning and drills.

There was the sound of plastic popping against plastic as the football players' pads collided. There was the annual 12-minute run by Bob Kehoe and the North soccer team. There was the "tree drill" by the South soccer team — running in-and-out drills weaving through a grove of trees on the school property. There were the stragglers, too. Players who hadn't kept up their conditioning over the summer. It'll take time. It was just the first day.

Pete Hayes

You have no idea how much I hate the Cubs

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record
GRANITE CITY — I hate the Chicago Cubs. The depth of my hatred is known only to those closest to me — my wife, my family, my friends back home in Olney, Ill. You people here in the St. Louis area may say you hate the Cubs. Indeed you might — but not as much as I. You see, my hatred has its roots deep in my past. People who have grown up and lived most of their lives here in the St. Louis area have been around Cardinal fans. Oh, an occasional old codger may still secretly root for the Browns, but for the most part, this is Cardinal country. But in Olney, such is not the case. For you see, Olney, Ill. is divided about evenly between Cardinal fans and Cub fans — and it's not a pleasant situation. Even though Cub fans have had practically nothing to cheer about for the past two thousand years, they still seem intent on making life miserable for us Cardinal fans. My hometown is no exception. They taunt, they jeer, they make fun. But actually, this is serious business in Olney. I have to say I admire the Cub fans for one thing — their perseverance. Anybody who could root for the same rotten team for this long with only a late-season swoon awaiting them must be loyal — or an idiot (I won't say which theory I subscribe to). Let's look at a typical diatribe Cub fan: For the most part he/she is in his/her forties or fifties (except for a few mutant throwbacks, the young people shy away from the Cubbies). He/she has been a Cub fan for at least 40 years (I know one who claims to have been one for 50 years. How sickening!). He/she has a case of diarrhea of the mouth and is obnoxious. Take good ol' Wid Pauley for example. This guy works in one of the banks in Olney. And boy, is he a Cub fan. He has ALL the symptoms. He loves to make life miserable for Cardinal fans. It's a wonder the bank officials haven't told him to shut up about it around the bigger depositors who are Card fans. Every year it's the same thing. The Cubs get off to a great start and ol' Wid is shooting off his mouth. Then comes mid-season and he's still jawing — though not quite as much. Then comes late August and then September. Wid is nowhere to be found. He must go crawl under something until football season (when he turns into a Bear fan). Or there's good ol' Wayne Berry. He's the one who says he's been a Cub fan for 50 years (I'd never admit to something like that). Ol' Wayne is a rural mail carrier. Maybe all those days alone fighting the rain, hail snow and gloom of night did something to his brain. Well ol' Wayne gets out his crystal set and tunes in to WGN Radio in Chicago to listen to static-filled broadcasts by the worst broadcasting team in baseball — Vince Lloyd and Lou Boudreau. Static isn't the only thing Cub broadcasts are filled with. Ol' Wayne says he became a Cub fan when his neighbor — a barber — used to root for the Cubs. Wayne's family didn't have a radio back then, but the friendly barber did. So when Wayne wanted to listen, he HAD to listen to the Cubs. Force-fed brainwashing. Ol' Wayne says he can remember when the Cubs won a pennant — but he wasn't here to enjoy it. The Cubs won their last league championship back in 1905, when all the good ball players — and Wayne — were away at war. So ol' Wayne didn't find out about the Cubs' pennant until he got back to the States. Justice. Things get so hot back in good ol' Olney between the two groups of fans that signs, slogans and all kinds of verbal abuse used to highlight the daily coffee-drinking ritual at the Town Talk restaurant on Whittle Ave. (I'm not kidding). All the "Monday Morning Quarterbacks" would gather there and talk about what those stupid major league managers should have done the night before. Before it was over (it lasted for hours), the conversation usually degenerated into the Cardinal fans talking about the talent the team HAS, and the Cub fans talking about the talent their team HAD. Cub fans can't stand it when a Cardinal does well. But Lou Brock just sticks in their craw. They can't accept the fact that they once had Brock in a Cub uniform. If new lows are to be reached, they can do it.

Monday night, when Brock got his 3,000th hit, WGN-TV didn't telecast the game. They usually telecast all home and away Cub games. But not Monday. I tuned in to WGN Radio after the game and didn't hear one mention of Brock's hit in the post-game show. One small mimeographed sign that I once saw tacked up around Olney said something like this: "April is a beautiful month. The birds are singing, the flowers are blooming. But the septic tanks are backed up and Cub fans are shooting their mouths off." "September is beautiful too. The leaves are turning, fall is in the air and by then the septic tanks have dried up and so have the Cub fans."

Miracle of our agriculture enables food to be grown more inexpensively, abundantly than anywhere else

Guest comment by National Agricultural Marketing Association — Transistor radios stamped "made in Japan." Disco suits labeled "made in Hong Kong." Silver Mercedes "made in Germany." "Wood chairs identified "made in Yugoslavia." Made in England, made in Poland, made in Korea, made in Sweden, made in Greece, made in Italy, made in Taiwan; such labels appear on many goods sold in the U.S.

However, with few exceptions, food products or commodities don't carry a foreign label, much less one reading made in India, made in China or made in Russia. Why? Because the U.S. is one of the few countries so self-sufficient when it comes to food. In fact, the label is for the most part omitted or overlooked from our greatest and most basic manufacturing product — American agriculture.

On the other hand, everywhere in the Third World, the Communist World, or the Old World, the mark of agricultural know-how, production and excellence is instantly recognized. Foreigners see our commodities and products as an "ag-miracle." They respect the unwritten label which reads... made in USA... bread, beef, corn... food.

With our super-abundance and technology, it is easy to overlook the basics of agriculture, the oldest and yet most modern occupation of man, that practiced by American farmers, ranchers, growers, food processors and all those in the food and fiber chain of U.S. agribusiness.

Since only four percent of the American population now farm (the number was 85 percent in Revolutionary days), it's easy to see why farm problems or issues generate little interest. Food is taken for granted, and the farmer is not seen in the marketplace.

Nonetheless, although only four percent of Americans are still farming, 4 out of every 10 non-farm workers in the United States are employed by agribusiness. Agriculture, the total industry of producing and processing food and fiber, involves millions of people, including the truck driver and dress designer.

Challenges faced in continuing to meet the world's food and fiber requirements include a shortage of capital, over-regulation, marketing restrictions, environmental pressures, misplaced blame for inflationary food prices, shrinking farm land, and obsolescence of the farm around with signs declaring, "Food is for people not for profit." The key to an adequate food supply and reasonable food costs at home is a farmer who is profitable.

The farmer, to stay in business, must see the potential for profit. That gives him incentive to produce more. More production acts to drive prices down at the retail level.

If there is no profit potential at forecasted prices, production will be reduced. This creates a shortage which drives prices up. Then, both the farmer and the consumer lose.

Agricultural themes for 1979 could be pictured by a combination of a cornucopia, a fighter, ears of infested corn, a chicken hanging in an open market, a split shopping bag, and a haunting portrait of starving children.

The first "ag-theme," contrasting a picture of a fighter and a tractor, presents the thought, "The best way to keep the peace is to have the most tractors." When one thinks of peace-keeping technology, thinking should not be limited to military hardware alone, such as tanks, fighters and missiles.

America's agriculture is her "biggest stick." No other country has an agricultural capacity to use American soil, climate and advanced technology. Today, one American farmer alone produces enough food to feed 56 others. As the current world's population explodes, most countries are unable to meet their food demands. They lack either land or technology or both. If the food-poor and people-rich countries can buy American military technology, they can certainly afford to buy its food.

The U.S. needs a foreign policy that puts its agricultural capacity to work in a way that will save millions from starvation, win stronger friendships in the world community, and help American agriculture find additional profits to finance better food values at home.

Focusing on an image of infested corn, the second ag-theme asks, "Remember the good old days before we had crop chemicals?" Taking issue with the idea that banning agricultural chemicals will improve quality of life, this theme asserts that if one thinks that such natural forces as insects and weeds will vanish, he should consider the plight of the Dutch Elm tree. One of the best environmentalists is the American farmer who, while conserving natural resources, uses chemicals effectively. Not only does he use chemicals to combat pests and disease, but he saves fuel and labor he'd otherwise waste on mechanical cultivating. By keeping production up, chemicals help the farmer hold prices down.

Because of the educational efforts of chemical manufacturers, most farmers have the equivalent of a Ph.D. when it comes to selecting chemicals wisely. Using chemicals cautiously for maximum results at minimum cost, the farmer protects himself, his livestock, crops, water, and soil.

As important as chemicals are, they are just one aspect of the farmer's over-all crop management program. He also looks for disease-resistant hybrids, genetic breakthroughs, and modern tillage practices. Safer and better ag-chemicals are needed, not a new blight of regulations.

Using a visual of a hanging chicken, the third ag-theme tackles the issue of the middleman and declares, "In some countries, agriculture doesn't need any middleman."

The average consumer sees "middleman" as a collection of drones positioned from farm to market, a fire-brigade of invisible men passing products down the line, pausing just long enough to take their mark-up without adding to product value.

The fact is that middlemen do add value. Many countries don't have middlemen because they lack the modern processing plants to clean, trim, inspect, freeze, or wrap food products.

Likewise, they have no rail, truck or air systems to rush fresh products to market, or warehouses to accept large bulk shipments and redistribute these inventories to local supermarkets. Most countries simply have no supermarkets.

If one desires less convenience, variety or freshness, the middleman can be eliminated. But then, since millions of Americans (4 of each 10 non-farm workers) are involved in processing food and fiber and getting it to market, millions would see their jobs vanish.

Although it is true that some countries don't have any middlemen, they are working overtime to get them.

Displaying a picture of a grocery bag, the fourth ag-theme states, "Before you complain about the high cost of food, remember it's a mixed bag." It raises the point that the typical modern processing purchase is a "mixed bag" filled with toothpaste, light bulbs, toilet tissue and other non-food basics usually bought at the supermarket and lumped as part of the food budget.

The mixed bag concept explains how one can spend $30 on Tuesday and have "nothing" the house runs on Saturday. With inflation nipping him daily, the consumer looks for culprits and the farmer often becomes the target.

Too often, the shopper forgets that the farmer is not immune to inflation and rising costs, either, nor are the food processors, transporters, distributors and food chains that keep us eating. A split of rising costs, food is still cheaper in the U.S. than anywhere in the world. An average American family spends about 17 percent of its income for food. That compares to 31 percent in England, 32 percent in Japan and 27 percent in Germany.

It's natural to complain about high prices; food prices are no exception. However, consumers should remember that food purchases are a mixed bag of food and non-food essentials.

The fifth ag-theme for 1979 deals with the spectre of world starvation and hunger. "Nothing" the problem with a picture of starving children, this theme maintains that "In some countries, people don't complain about high prices."

It makes the point that the consumer gets bombarded with "shopping cart" reports that show eggs a little cheaper one month while butter slides up three cents a pound the next, an apparent inflation monitor. Of course, if inflation were monitored by the cost of going to a movie, or getting a haircut, one would stay home and let his hair grow.

But the fact is that in the U.S., food is still a shopper's bargain, because America's agriculture is the most scientifically-advanced, efficient, plentiful agriculture in the world.

In some countries, people don't complain about high food prices, because there isn't any food at all.

The National Research Council (NRC) says that as many as 450 million to one billion people in the world do not receive enough food. Most of them live in poor countries with rapidly growing populations, and the agriculture that does exist is primitive.

More can be done. American farmers could produce their full capacity and supply the world's food needs on a free-enterprise basis, if freed from over-regulation and marketing restrictions.

PENSION PLAN

State employees would benefit

By AL MANNING
SPRINGFIELD — There's been a lot of talk in the General Assembly about tax relief, but very little meaningful action.

However, the legislature did pass one pension bill which, if signed into law, will increase the take-home pay of government employees.

Rep. Robert Terzich, D-Chicago, the sponsor of the legislation, says the bill could raise the take-home pay of government employees by two to four percent.

To many residents of Springfield, where state government is the number one industry, that increase will undoubtedly be considered meaningful.

Exact figures on the savings to government employees are difficult to cite because of the complicated pension laws.

Essentially, the plan is to tax-shelter employee contributions to the state retirement system.

Under the present law, the state contributes one-half toward the employee's pension, and the employee contributes one-half. The plan is to defer the federal income tax on the employee's contribution until resignation or retirement.

The employee's contributions would still be considered as a part of the gross salary in calculating benefits, even though the tax is deferred.

Many companies in the private sector already have such tax-sheltered pension plans because, in addition to saving the employee tax money, they also reduce the company's tax liability.

In addition, the state income tax (2.5 percent) would not be applied at any time the pension is received.

The Internal Revenue Service has approved of the plan for government employees as proposed in the legislation.

According to statistics compiled by the House Democratic staff for the Personnel and Pensions Committee, a state employee with three dependents earning $9,000 would have take-home pay approximately $50 per year higher. The extra money would be the result of deferred payment of the federal income tax.

A similar employee earning $14,000 would take home an extra $250, an employee earning $19,200 would get $413, and an employee in the $30,000 bracket would receive an extra $850.

The rates vary depending on whether the employee's pension is coordinated with Social Security. Many employees would receive somewhat less than the above figures, Terzich says.

The staff analysis also adds this note: "A quick glance at the table may lead one to believe that tax-sheltering of the eight percent employee contribution would be of importance mainly to the higher salaried employees because the percent of increase in take-home pay is greater for those in the higher salaried ranges.

"However, this is not necessarily correct. A person in a lower salary range may be in a zero federal tax bracket after retirement, and pay no tax on the eight percent contribution when he receives his pension."

On the other hand, a person in the higher salaried range likely will be required to pay a substantial federal tax when he receives his pension."

A change in the law would be undesirable from two points of view. The state would lose approximately $5 million annually in revenue and employees who resign and withdraw — not contributions in a lump sum would have a higher tax liability.

Any legislation which costs the state $5 million in lost revenue is suspect, of course.

But a study done by the University of Illinois concludes any small loss in revenue to the state should be contrasted with the job creation and economic benefits associated with increased economic activity in the state.

All employees were to tax-shelter their tax retirement contributions according to the study, the total salary in calculating benefits to the employees would be approximately $150 million. The experts figure 90 percent of that money would be spent immediately — not in the state — and therefore the "multiplier" effect would apply. The total economic activity in the state would amount to about $3 for every $1 extra in the employee's paycheck.

Therefore, the state would increase extra money in the form of sales tax and other indirect taxes.

Under the terms of the legislation, local government units would not automatically be included in the program. The city of Springfield, for example, would have to pass an ordinance to have to participate. University employees could also participate.

Christ Unity Church moves

Christ Unity Church is occupying its new building at 700 N. Clay St., Collinsville, it was announced today by the minister, Rev. Thomas C. Boswell.

The church formerly was located on North 87th Street in East St. Louis.

The initial service at the new location was held this week.

Services are scheduled each Sunday morning at 10 o'clock and area residents are invited to attend, the pastor said.

Jim Wilkerson is assistant minister at the church, which is affiliated with the United School of Christianity at Lee's Summit, Mo.

NEWS ANALYSIS

Switch hurts Reagan candidacy

By AL MANNING

SPRINGFIELD — Some Illinois Republicans think they delivered a major blow to Ronald Reagan's presidential hopes by having the legislature change the system of electing delegates to the national convention.

The new law apparently won't apply to Democrats, since the change would violate the rules of the Democratic National Committee. Republicans with the co-operation of Gov. James Thompson, passed legislation which strips the name of the presidential candidates off the ballot in Illinois.

Since few of the well-known party regulars favor Reagan, they think the change will make it much more difficult for the former California governor to win delegates in Illinois.

Illinois could play a key role in selecting the GOP nominee because this state will send the largest number of delegates to the convention from the Midwest and the third largest number from any state.

The real purpose of the change, though, is to attempt to return control of the delegates to the established leadership of the party.

GOP leaders don't want to run the risk of committing themselves early to a candidate who might even drop out of the race by the July convention. They would much prefer to go to the convention uncommitted, and if the nomination is brokered among the various states and special interests, then Illinois can play a much greater role in the selection process.

Since Reagan is considered the frontrunner for the nomination at this point, the switch hurts his candidacy.

State Rep. Don Totten of Hoffman Estates, who is managing the Reagan campaign in Illinois, resisted the change, admitting it will be more difficult to elect delegates committed to Reagan.

The legislation was sponsored by Sen. James "Pat" Philip of Elmhurst, who at this point favors John Connally for the nomination.

Also, employees of the governor's office lobbied hard for passage of the legislation on the floor of the House.

Thompson has done a good job thus far of maintaining the neutrality in the presidential sweepstakes, but as the result of legislation it is clear that Thompson is less enthusiastic about Reagan than he is toward some of the contenders.

(In calling for the change in the law, Philip also was promoting Thompson for vice president.)

The change also lessens the potential for conflict between the key Republican leaders in the state and the two announced candidates from Illinois, John Anderson of Rockford and Phil Crane of Mt. Prospect.

Although the two Congressmen are working hard for the nomination, they are both considered longshots to win the office.

Anderson and Crane could both still be in the running when the debate primary is held in March, but then drop out before the July convention.

By switching the method of electing delegates, Illinois Republican leaders won't have to be put in the embarrassing position of opposing the Illinois candidates early in the campaign.

Also, it more than likely will reduce the influence of either Anderson or Crane held in March, but then drop out before the July convention.

INFLATION, TAXES

They push saving out of style

By ED ARMSTRONG

Business columnist Louis Ruker wrote a few months ago that "The typical American these days is borrowing more and enjoying it less."

The typical American's answer might be: "The government made me do it."

A combination of inflation, which most people blame on the government, and taxes — they're all imposed by government — is pushing saving out of style. Saving, that is, in the form of things like a home or gold or a share of a business, is likely to be still profitable.

But so long as the present inflation and tax situation continues, the person in a debt situation stands to benefit.

To be more specific, suppose a family in a 25 percent tax bracket saves $1,000 and invests it at 9 percent interest, not compounded. In the first year, that investment would earn $90 interest. But taxes would take one-fourth of those earnings, cutting the family's actual dollars added to $67.50.

If inflation is at the same 10 percent rate — we'll be lucky if it drops to that level — the $1,000 would lose $100 in purchasing power during the year. So, after a year of saving at what appears to be an attractive 9 percent rate, the family would have $967.50 in purchasing power — less than the original $1,000 saved.

If the family was in a higher tax bracket, the loss to taxes would be even more with purchasing power even more depleted. So those in the best position to save are most discouraged to do so.

There are some methods of saving — special plans, governmental bonds, etc. — in which the saver can postpone the tax bite so he can pay in the future in cheaper inflated dollars or when he has retired and is in a lower tax bracket. But inflation still eats away at the value of the savings.

Another family in the 40 percent tax bracket saves $5,000 but uses it as a down payment on a real estate investment borrowing $45,000 at 12 percent interest, a cost of $5,400 a year. If they just break even on the real estate operations, the costs and income balance each other — the family still takes the interest expense deduction from income on its tax form.

Being in the 40 percent tax bracket, the family would deduct $2,000 less taxes cutting the actual interest expense to $3,400. But if the property increased in value at the rate of inflation — 10 percent in the previous example — the actual value of the property would go up $5,000 the first year. Deducting the net interest expense of $3,400 from that leaves the family still $1,600 ahead on its investment for the year.

So, while the family that saved dollars actually lost money for the year, the one that went into debt to buy property made money, at least on paper. Also, with the high inflation rate, the debt to buy the property will be paid off with cheaper dollars, and the increase in property value will be compounded from year to year.

Before anyone rushes into a property purchase on the basis of this rough example, he should be informed of the risks in such purchases.

First of all there's the question of buying the property, that it's worth and having a reasonable cash flow from it to meet expenses.

Then there's the matter of the future economy. No one really knows if inflation will continue at high rates. A sharp recession could result in a loss of value of the investment or at least stop its growth. What looks now like a winner could turn into a loser. So there clearly is risk in going into debt.

But given the present situation — that inflation has been a fact of life most of the time for two generations and that interest earned is taxed while interest paid can be deducted from earnings for tax purposes — is it any wonder that interest rates are high but that borrowers have little to discourage borrowers?

Names associate pastors

The Rev. A. E. Cope, pastor of City Temple Assembly of God Church, 4751 Maryville Road, this week has announced the addition of two associate pastors to the church staff.

The new associates are the Rev. Edward Shemwell and the Rev. Charles B. Adams.

City Temple Assembly of God moved in 1977 from the 1900 block of State Street to its present location.

Since the move, membership has increased to about 150, with more than 300 people attending church school and worship services on Sunday, a spokesman advised.

The primary reason for the staff expansion is to help meet the needs of a much larger congregation, Rev. Cope noted.

Rev. Shemwell, a member of City Temple for 12 years, has served as song leader for several years, as deacon and as Sunday school teacher. He also has worked in various other areas of church service.

He has pastored at other churches and has served in the evangelistic field for several years.

Rev. Shemwell and his wife, Louise, reside at 2645 Washington Ave. They have four children: Randy, Johnnie and Starlene Shemwell and Mrs. Pam (Shemwell) Rice.

Rev. Adams has spent two years in the mission field in Hawaii, working as music director for the Full Gospel Business Men's Association, Teen Challenge and Youth With A Mission.

He also served as pastor and associate pastor of a church in Kona, Hawaii, in addition to other churches.

The new associate minister has been a member of the Chapelaires Quartet for a number of years.

In 1978 when he and his family moved to Granite City, Rev. Adams became a member of the City Temple where he has served in several capacities, including writing and directing plays, mission conventions, music ministry and as teacher for the Royal Rangers and Christ Ambassadors' programs.

CHARLES B. ADAMS

He and his wife, Eleanor, reside in Glenwood Estates with their four sons, Vince, Tim, John and Bryan.

Worship services are held at the church at 10:45 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday and at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday. Church school begins at 9:45 a.m. Sunday.

Area residents are invited to attend all programs at City Temple, Rev. Cope said.

Burns healing

Michelle McCallister, 9, of 1430 Iowa St., is recuperating in St. Elizabeth Medical Center from third-degree burns to her right leg and ankle suffered when her trousers caught on fire in the alley behind her home Sunday.

Her mother disagreed with initial reports on the accident, saying some boys had started a fire in the alley and Michelle was attempting to extinguish the flames when her trousers caught on fire.

THEFT CHARGED

David Wayne Phillips, 17, of 1106 Grand Ave., was arrested at 11 a.m. Tuesday by Granite City police detectives and was charged with a misdemeanor count of theft. He allegedly admitted taking two chickens and a beef roast from the refrigerator at the apartment of Sharon Hankans, 2015 Washington Ave., Aug. 6. He was released at 4:15 p.m. Tuesday on a notice to appear in court.

Ends 26 years on Venice force

By MICK STRANGE

of the Press-Record

Raymond C. Mikolaszuk, acting chief of police of Venice, announced his retirement to the Venice City Council Tuesday night.

Mikolaszuk has been a member of the Venice police department for 26 years and 21 days.

His retirement is effective Sept. 3. However, he began a three-week vacation today. After his letter of resignation was read, Fourth Ward Alderman Charles Haynes said, "Ray, you have been a real asset to the police department and to the city. We're sorry to accept this, but God bless you in your future plans."

Michelle Tyrone Echols said, "I concur with Alderman Haynes and the rest of the council. You have given much to the city and have served the people well."

Mikolaszuk joined the Venice police at age 26 on Aug. 15, 1953. He was promoted to Sergeant on Aug. 15, 1971.

Mikolaszuk became assistant chief of police on Dec. 12, 1972.

On May 1, 1979 when former Chief Ralph D. Brawley retired, Mikolaszuk was named acting chief of police by Mayor Echols.

Born in Madison, he moved to Venice at age 4. He and his wife Lou Ellen live at 413 Lincoln Ave., Venice.

When asked about his future plans, he said, "Well I have really made no definite plans yet. I have a small farm and I have some rental property, all of which need work done and that will keep me busy for a while."

"I have been thinking of buying a bicycle like Chief Brawley and riding it a lot to keep in shape."

Mikolaszuk said in his retirement letter: "I can say, through the years, it has been a privilege to have served the citizens of Venice. I cannot begin to praise my fellow officers enough, both past and present, for their dedication, understanding and consideration shown me as a fellow worker and administrator."

"I consider myself as being one of the lucky ones to be part of the Venice Illinois Police Department, whose performance and professionalism is second to none."

Fairview Heights planner to guide Pontoon progress

By GARY SCHNEIDER

of the Press-Record

With an eye toward orderly growth and development of Pontoon Beach over the next 20 years, the Pontoon Beach Village Board Tuesday night voted to hire one of the incorporators of Fairview Heights to aid in plotting future growth and economic stability.

Mishka "Mike" Jett of Chesterfield, Mo., an experienced city planner was hired by board resolution to gather data for applications for federal and state grants and to aid in planning village improvements over the next 5, 10, 15 and 20-year periods.

A retainer of $1,000 was approved and the board agreed he should be compensated $30 per hour for preparing grant applications. The village board president, Paul Bennett, must approve the number of hours he plans to spend on each assignment.

The village's contract with David Davis & Associates, the former village planning firm, has been fulfilled, except for completion and approval of one chapter of the village's municipal code, which is nearly complete. The village has paid for all work called for in the Davis contract.

Jett is to begin work immediately on the short and long-range goals of the village.

The board received a letter from the Illinois Department of Public Health, notifying them that a recent opinion from the Illinois Attorney General requires that a registered plumber be engaged for all plumbing inspections.

Formerly, the village's building inspector, who is not a registered plumber, was responsible for doing inspections, including plumbing. The board agreed to seek a plumber willing to do the inspections.

A proposal from Ray

Smith to sell a used typewriter to the village was turned down and the board authorized Village Clerk Mary Warren to purchase a new typewriter costing up to $300.

Health and life insurance for the village's policemen and dispatchers was purchased from Equitable Life Insurance Co., after a lengthy discussion with a company representative on an insurance proposal.

The village will pay all of the premiums for the eight policemen and dispatchers at a cost of $1,119 per month. The plan also is offered for dependants of those in the program. The insurance includes dental care and maternity benefits.

National BPW meets in Boston

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record

Sarah Weddington, special assistant to President Carter, told delegates to the National Business and Professional Women's convention that the White House will continue "in partnership with BPW, not only because of my membership in BPW, but also because the commitment of BPW to expanding the life choices available to women is a long standing one."

Mrs. Weddington was among several distinguished speakers at the 60th annual business women's convention held at the John B. Hynes Veterans Auditorium in Boston, Mass.

In addressing the convention body, Mrs. Weddington praised the BPW's participation and leadership in the fight for equal rights.

She spoke of the increasing numbers of working women and announced an Interagency Committee on Women's Business Enterprise has been created which will coordinate Federal actions to aid women entrepreneurs.

The plan, she said, also establishes a goal of $50 million in direct Small Business Administration loans to women-owned firms for the 1980 fiscal year.

Julia K. Arri of California was installed as National BPW president. She succeeds in office, Geraldine R. Eldon of Texas.

Other new national officers installed for 1979-80 were:

Dorine Chancellor of Arizona, president elect; Phyllis Harrison of Michigan, first vice-president; Jeri S. Libner of South Carolina, second vice-president; Polly Madenwald of Oregon, third vice-president; Winnie Lethbridge of New Hampshire, recording secretary; and Pauline Riel of Ohio, treasurer.

Among the convention highlights was the delivery to the Hynes Auditorium of $10,000 in the Susan B. Anthony $1 coins, which were given delegates in exchange for $1 bills.

The exchange project came following a speech by Stalla B. Hackel, Director of the Mint of the U.S. Treasury, who presented one of the first $1 coins struck to Mrs. Eldon.

Mrs. Eldon praised the coin and said, "It's a daily reminder of the struggle women have gone through for equality."

Mrs. Hackel stated in her address, "There is clearly a need for the coin. It bears the same relationship to the quarter as does the quarter to a nickel," she insisted, noting complaints that the new coin too closely resembles the 25 cent piece.

attending the conference also heard Helen Milliken, co-chairman of ERAmerica with Sharon Percy Rockefeller, give an overview of the historical and current status of women as she outlined new strategies for ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment.

Mrs. Milliken, wife of Michigan's Governor William Milliken, has been first lady of her state since 1969 and has worked with the ERA coalition in Michigan.

She urged BPW members to "keep fighting for ERA" ratification because, in the words of Susan B. Anthony, a leading feminist in the 1800's, "failure is impossible."

Other key speakers included Congresswoman Margaret M. Heckler, 10th Massachusetts District; Deputy Mayor Katherine D. Kane of Boston; Mildred Head, London, England, president of the International BPW Federation.

Susan King, news correspondent and weekend anchor at WDM-TV, Washington, D.C.; Massachusetts Lt. Gov. Thomas P. O'Neill III; Barbara Nowell, president, Wellesley College; and Sharon Crain, director, Women's Center for Executive Development, Chicago.

$117,426 grant for SIUE upward bound program

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has received a $117,426 grant from the U.S. Office of Education to provide continued support for its Veterans Upward Bound Program, according to Stanley Riley, program director.

The program helps veterans who would like to go to college and develop skills necessary to survive on campus. Including two components, the program consists of a GED (high school equivalency) course for those who have not completed high school and a college prep program for vets who need to brush up on their language and mathematics skills.

In addition, veterans in the Upward Bound Program receive comprehensive counseling and supportive services as needed. "Over the past six years, more than 1,200 veterans have taken advantage of our academic services, with an additional 4,050 utilizing our referral network," Riley said.

Classes are offered on the Edwardsville campus and at the SIUE East St. Louis Center. Classes on the main campus are offered either during the day or evenings, for the convenience of people working shifts and for those with heavy family and work responsibilities. Classes are only offered during the day at the East St. Louis Center. To participate in the Veterans Upward Bound Program, a prospective student must be a Vietnam veteran who has actively served in the military service of the United States. In addition, the veteran must meet all the eligibility requirements set forth in the Upward Bound guidelines.

Veterans interested in learning more about the program may contact the Upward Bound Office at (618) 692-2622 or the Veterans Outreach Office at (618) 692-2294.

SEEK CYCLIST

For the third time in the past week, a young man on a bright orange Yamaha motorcycle and wearing an orange cycle helmet exposed himself to a 17-year-old girl moving grass in the rear yard of a home in the 4000 block of Rode Avenue about 8 p.m. Monday. She ran to a nearby car and he drove away on his motorcycle toward West Pontoon Road. He is described as a large man and having brown wavy hair. The description matches two previous exposure cases in the vicinity of St. Clair Avenue east of the Nameoki drainage ditch.

Nameoki levies $394,590

By PETE STEHMAN
Tax levies for Nameoki Township will increase only 3.8 percent for the next tax year. Levies (the amounts to be collected in taxes) approved Monday night total $394,590.

A total of $225,671 was extended to fund township operations and $168,919 was the levy to finance the highway department.

A breakdown shows $142,671 for the township general fund, $63,000 was tabbed for the general assistance fund and $20,000 in taxes for the Illinois municipal retirement fund for town employees.

In highway department funds, $148,919 was levied for the general road fund and $20,000 for the DMRF.

As has become practice in recent years, trustees okayed an ordinance which allows Highway Commissioner Frank Moble to set a road and bridge tax rate of .165 per $100 in assessed valuation. Without the ordinance, the maximum amount taxed cannot exceed .125.

Trustee Lee Adams stressed the special ordinance will not change township taxes. "There's no increase in taxes," Adams said. "It's the same amount we've always collected."

Township Clerk Douglas Teator said the highway department levy approved this week does not include money for the special hard road fund, which is approved every five years by electors at the annual town meeting.

TINKERBELL is a Granite City girl. Pam Tester, a former Granite City Junior Miss, has taken up modeling. Dressed as the famed Tinkerbell, Miss Tester was at a department store in East Alton last weekend, promoting a bubble bath product for children.

No sewers—no taxes, county judge rules

Some Chouteau and Nameoki township residents who are in the taxing area for new sanitary sewers but will not receive sewer service may find relief through the courts, two residents of Old Alton Road have discovered.

Associate Judge Clayton R. Williams has ruled in favor of the Jon Pryor and Ken Tipler families, ruling they do not have to pay the special assessment for sanitary sewers, since they will not receive sewer service.

Members of the Madison County special sewer committee had contended everyone included in the sewer district would have to pay for sewers, even if they were not to receive them, noting the principal is the same as with school taxes where persons without children in schools still have to pay the tax.

Williams' ruling, which is likely to be appealed by the county, indicates that taxpayers who refused to pay the tax can have the assessment for sewers removed from their tax bills. Residents who paid the tax under protest may file certificates of error or petition the court to have the tax refunded, the ruling indicates.

However, there will be no recourse through the courts for those who have already paid the tax without protesting the assessment for sewers, according to Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles.

Finds house ransacked

Mrs. Lena Roseberry, 2522 Nameoki Road, returned home last week to find her house had been ransacked and a man's gold wristwatch, valued at $100, and a checkbook were among the items missing.

Entry into the dwelling was gained by forcing a rear door and breaking the lock on the door frame. A lock on the basement door also had been smashed.

An inventory was being taken to determine what other items were stolen.

The new DeMolays are Bradley E. Busch, Robert L. Favier, Jeffrey D. Hendon, Richard D. Petchulat, Gerald L. Singleton Jr., Jimmy K. Stuart and David W. Trokey. They were given the Initiatory degree by the senior officers.

New DeMolays initiated

Several area young men became members of The James Stuart Chapter, Order of DeMolay, last week at the Masonic temple when the Initiatory and DeMolay degrees were conferred upon them as members of a class named in honor of William J. Mehl, a charter member of the then Granite City Chapter.

He was one of 30 charter members from Granite City who received their degrees in 1921 along with other candidates from other chapters in Missouri at the Scottish Rite Cathedral in St. Louis.

The degrees were conferred by Perfection Chapter of St. Louis. A member of the advisory council of James Stuart Chapter, Mehl is observing his 50th year as a DeMolay Legion of Honor recipient. The Legion of Honor, the highest award bestowed by the International Supreme Council upon a senior DeMolay, was conferred upon Mehl in 1929 by Louis E. Lower, the first DeMolay, as Commander in the East for the conferral at the Masonic Temple in East St. Louis.

Miss Lea Ann Baker, the Chapter's Sweetheart, will compete for the title of Illinois DeMolay Sweetheart at the four-day event. Mr. Delors Baker will accompany her daughter as chaperone.

The DeMolay degree team included Hiram Ables as DeMolay; David Leebetter, master instructor; Shaun Roe, senior instructor; Anthony Tsigolaroff, junior instructor; Dennis Worthen, Guy of Avergne; Steve Smith, Hugue de Peralde; Bob Hebblethwaite, Godfrey DeGonville; Pat Harper, senior guard; Rod Jackson, Fred Trebing, Gary Ingraham and Pat Gibbons as soldiers; Kirk Potillo, marshal of the commission; John Williams and Rich Miller, marshal's guards; Tim Passig and Brad Lane, inquisitor escorts; David Harley, Lord Constable, and Darren Miller, French captain.

The seven new DeMolays gave the chapter 100 percent of its 1979 membership goal for which it will be given special recognition at the 51st annual State Conclave to be held on the Campus of Western Illinois University, Macomb, Thursday through Sunday, Aug. 9-12.

Ten DeMolays, two advisers, along with Job's Daughters and members of the guardian council and advisers' wives will be in attendance from the local area.

Miss Lea Ann Baker, the Chapter's Sweetheart, will compete for the title of Illinois DeMolay Sweetheart at the four-day event. Mr. Delors Baker will accompany her daughter as chaperone.

REV. M. J. QUILLIGAN

Rev. Quilligan UW division head

The Rev. M. J. Quilligan, executive director of the United Way funded Quad-Cities Catholic Charities Agency, will serve as Division IV, Chairman, Group "B," for solicitation of United Way Staff and Employees in the 1979 Fall Tri-Cities Area United Way Campaign. The appointment was made by Group Vice-Chairman, Mel Wilmesmyer.

"It is a credit to our community to report that in addition to regular work requirements of United Way Agency staff members, which frequently include service requirements far beyond and outside normal working requirements and hours, these people rank very high in United Way per capita giving, having fully accepted their role as community service providers and responsible Fair Share United Way Giving," Wilmesmyer said.

"Last year, these people reached a record high in giving by increasing contributions well over 30 percent, with 90 percent of the agencies' staff also meeting Fair Share Standards or exceeding them," he concluded.

BURGLARY

Gas rebellion group formed

A group of consumers in California have formed a "rebellion" group called, "The Gas Rebellion Committee of America," with goals "to expose the gasoline shortage for what we believe it to be, a conspiracy and a collusion among the big oil companies to drive gasoline prices up to further fatten their already gigantic profits."

The group also hopes "to drive the prices of gasoline back down through selective boycotting of the big oil companies. The Committee will also conduct a campaign to have the voters of America pressure their elected representatives in Congress to pass legislation that will control oil prices, oil supplies and oil research."

Further information will be sent to anyone sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to, "The Gas Rebellion Committee of America, Post Office Box 9276, San Jose, Calif. 95117," a spokesman said.

STARVIEW

New star on scene: the actor-writer

By Anne Thayer

Employment uncertainty in the performing arts being what it is, actors who can create a saleable play, or television or movie script, obviously have a built-in aide to financial security. But oddly, while acknowledging that these extra dollars from writing don't hurt a bit, money alone is rarely the motivation. The reasons for writing vary as widely as the individuals.

Most who toil in television and movies develop their materials for tape or film. An outstanding exception, however, is Ernest Thompson. Two years ago he co-starred as a steely-eyed young resident in the short-lived ABC series, "West Side Medical." Before that, he co-starred in the also-brief "Sierra."

But if one series didn't work, chances were good that another would come along soon for such a good-looking and disciplined actor. So it was easy for an interviewer to overlook Thompson's statement, "I'm considering devoting full time to writing."

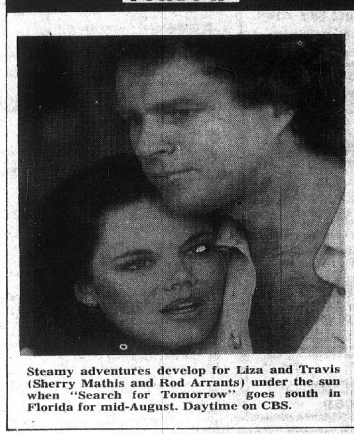

Easy perhaps, but it's foolish to overlook that hint. For this season, "On Golden Pond," by playwright Ernest Thompson, was nominated for a Broadway Tony Award in the Best Play of the Year category.

Chevy Chase, until the movies lured him to co-star on the big screen with Goldie Hawn, considered himself, "a writer, period."

A colleague says, "I never believed that he pulled out of 'Saturday Night Live' just because he wanted more money. He was one of the show's original writers and he did the on-camera stuff himself."

He was one of the show's original writers and he did the on-camera stuff himself. He was one of the show's original writers and he did the on-camera stuff himself.

FRIDAY

Steamy adventures develop for Liza and Travis (Sherry Mathis and Rod Arrants) under the sun when "Search for Tomorrow" goes south in Florida for mid-August. Daytime on CBS.

Quotable stars' quotable quotes

By CINDY ADAMS

Have some handpicked quotes which have been carefully selected: Richard Burton: "I've been married thirteen years to each wife. If I make another thirteen with my new wife I'll just about be ready for the grave." ... Steve Allen, the original "Tonight Show" host is the author of half-a-dozen books and more recently has created an entertaining (and educational) PBS series, "Meeting of Minds," an entertaining mix of social history and wild anachronisms.

Steve's eventual successor, Johnny Carson, always aspired to the spotlight, but was toiling behind the scenes as a writer for Red Skelton when fate kicked him upstairs. Legend says that Skelton lost his voice during a live telecast and Johnny sprinted from the wings with enough fast patter to save the show.

Mel Brooks and Carl Reiner — close chums to day — met back when they joined the writing team of Sid Caesar's "Your Show of Shows," the comedy highlight of TV's golden age.

Reiner was also one of the show's co-stars. Brooks dallied behind the scenes longer. Now, though he's busier than ever before and does on-camera turns, too. The most recent is as the fiendishly funny scientist out to do in Kermit the Frog in "The Muppet Movie."

A newcomer to the list of those who seek acclaim in two fields is Ted Lange. His face is familiar to viewers as Isaac the bartender on "The Love Boat." He hopes viewers will recognize his real name in the future among writers' credits. He's already reaped his first one — as the co-author of a comedy movie, "Toe to Toe."

Carol Burnett: "I attract the type who drags a homely kid up to me saying, 'Talk to my daughter. Make her feel good. She thinks she's ugly because she looks like you.'"

Ariane Dahl: "My 18-year-old daughter was talking to a school chum about going from a B to a C. I was so relieved to hear she was talking about bra sizes." ... Raymond Burr: "On my island of Naftuba in Fiji I grow coconuts and I found a really good way to harvest them. I simply wait until they drop from the trees!" ... Woody Allen: "I went to a psychiatrist for years and it finally helped. Now I get refused by a much better class of girls!" ... Phyllis Diller: "I'm 61. I have a new nose, a new face and a new bosom but the rest of my parts are 61 years old!"

Ronald Reagan: "Politics is not such a bad profession when you think about it. After all, if you succeed there are many rewards and if you disgrace yourself you can always write a book."

Gina Lollobrigida: "Your dress should be tight enough to show you're a woman and loose enough to show you're a lady!" ... Carol Channing: "My very first job was at Macy's bakery but I got fired that same week. Seems I had a small habit of picking the blueberries out of the muffins."

Hal Linden: "The reason I bared my pure pink body in my movie, 'When You Come Home Red Ryder,' was because I wanted audiences to forget all about John Travolta!" ... Valerie Bertinelli: "Hollywood is great. Where else can you buy a pocket calculator with unlisted numbers?" ... Bill Cosby: "Sex education may be a good idea in the schools but I do not believe the kids should be given homework."

And from Deborah Kerr: "Husbands are like fires. They go out when unattended."

Beach Boys on stage at Festival Sunday

The Beach Boys will bring the golden harmonies that have kept them popular for so many years to the stage of the Mississippi River Festival on the campus of Southern Illinois University in Edwardsville on Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

The Beach Boys began in 1962 and still present a winning combination of five members — Brian, Dennis, and Carl Wilson, Mike Love and Alan Jardine.

The Beach Boys became famous for their rhythmic harmonies in the early 1960s depicting "fun in the sun" activities in Southern California with such hits as "Good Vibrations," "Barbara Ann," "Surfer Girl,"

"California Girls," "Help Me Rhonda," "Wouldn't It Be Nice," and most recently, "Good Times." "Fun, Fun, Fun" memories of the Beach Boys' sound can still be heard in their music today, although they have leaned more toward a disco beat in their most recent album, "The Beach Boys L.A." with the cut, "Here Comes the Night."

"Here Comes the Night" is a revitalized version of their old hit but is definitely a Beach Boys' sound.

'Y' still has short-term memberships

The Tri-City Area YMCA has announced the continued availability of three-month or six-month memberships for any individual 18 years and older. The 'Y' offers a wide variety of programs from fitness classes to guitar lessons.

"A short term membership enables individuals to see what is available to them without spending a great deal of money," Y Physical Director Ed Mercer said.

"A short term membership is available at any time of the year, and prices are extremely reasonable," he continued. Mercer also said that family memberships have risen dramatically in number during the past year, and that family memberships are the best buy available.

For example, a three-month family regular membership is only $41 for two adults and all children under 18 in the family, he said.

Music students back from trip to festival

Sixteen students of the National School of Music in Granite City returned last week from the Mid-America Music Festival at Omaha, Neb., where the youngsters participated in three days of busy activity.

Representatives of 45 studios in seven states made up the total of 1,025 entrants who took part. The group was entertained during the program by the Turner Dimensions and the Gullies Brothers. Attendance was reported lower than usual because of gasoline supply problems.

Entrants from the Granite City studio attending were: Michelle Poyner, Grace Reynolds, Terry Perrin, Andy Reynolds, Cyndi Brown, Joey Mangiaracino, Gina Mangiaracino, Jason Greco, Eddie Robertson, Carla Reynolds, Melissa Holmes, Carl McCullister, Kathi Smith, Jahne Kae Rodgers, Barry Reynolds, and John Crowder.

Michelle Poyner, Gina Mangiaracino, Terry Perrin, Eddie Robertson, Kathi Smith, Jennifer Miles, Jahne Kae Rodgers, Barry Reynolds, Grace Reynolds, and Melissa Holmes received superior trophies. The others received certificates of merit.

Prior to the Omaha trip, a weekend recital was held to give the students participating in the music festival a chance to play their selections before an audience.

Recital performers were Andy Reynolds, Terry Perrin, Gina Mangiaracino, Carla Reynolds, Carmen Joyce, Joey Mangiaracino, Walter Lancaster, Tammy Kemp, Cyndi Brown, Paul Causey, Kathi Smith, William Lancaster, Robby Norton, Pam Rogers, Cheryl Lenzi, Johnny Norton, Lisa DeMann, Mary Causey, Michelle Poyner, Jason Greco, and Darren Davis, all on the first night, Barry Reynolds, Leroy Pryor, Connie Baugh, Cathy Charter, Robin Thompson, Chris Stone, Michelle Stuart, Tricia Barker, Tom Hilligoss, Lisa Balogh, Carla Reynolds, Joe Stavelly, Grace Reynolds, Eddie Robertson, Rae Swalley, Martin Copwood, Ron Buechle, Tamara Hoffman, Shelly Gorline, Jahne Kae Rogers, Linda Sarich, Traci Henn, Carl Byrnes, Melissa Holmes, Kathy Cuvier, Craig Varble, Diane Kaltmeyer, Timmy Chandler, Darla Boli, Carl McCullister, Jeffrey Stephens, Julie Simon, Kim Stavelly, and David Malotki, all on the second night.

TROPHIES GALORE! Betty Applegate, left, and Emylee Alford, members of the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club, assemble some of the 650 trophies for a Talent Show and Modeling Contest, scheduled Saturday, Aug. 25, at the Tri-City Area YMCA. Children and young adults, between 12 months and 21 years, may register to participate before midnight, Saturday, Aug. 18, by calling Sharold Yount at 931-4742 for an entrance form.

Appeals court reverses McCabe rape conviction

The Fifth District Appellate Court at Mount Vernon has overturned the conviction of Jerry Lee McCabe, 25, of the 3900 block of Central Lane, on charges of rape and armed violence and has remanded him for a new trial.

McCabe was sentenced Aug. 15, 1978, to serve 20 years in prison after being found guilty of raping a 20-year-old girl in the parking lot of Granite City High School South Feb. 27, 1978. He also was sentenced to serve five years in prison for armed violence in connection with the incident.

The Appellate Court ruled the state had failed to provide defense attorneys with documents relating to another young man who was in the area at the time of the rape and who showed "erratic behavior," according to witnesses. Defense requested a mistrial on this other potential suspect three times and received it just before the trial, denying the defense adequate time to prepare for its, according to the court. Although the Appellate Court did order the new trial, the justices said evidence presented in the trial was sufficient to support a conviction. Ruling on McCabe's motion that the evidence was insufficient, the court ruled, "Having examined the facts in this case, we find no merit to this assertion."

Talent show, modeling contest deadline nears

Vocalists, musicians, twirlers, dancers and models, between the ages of 12 months and 21 years, may enter a special contest being co-sponsored by the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club and the Tri-City Area YMCA on Saturday, Aug. 25.

The "Modeling and Talent Contest," scheduled to start at 9:30 a.m., Aug. 25 in various parts of the YMCA, 2901 Edison Ave., has been arranged to observe the International Year of the Child, the organizers state. Pre-registration is required and entrance forms may be obtained by calling Sharold Yount, chairman, at 931-4742.

All registrations must be received, postmarked no later than midnight, Saturday, Aug. 18, Mrs. Yount stressed.

Entrance fees are set at $5 for modeling events and $3 for all other events, including duet and trio numbers. Contestants being entered as a team will pay a $2 entry fee each.

Proceeds from the contest will be divided equally by the YMCA and business women's club to help further varied youth programs supported by the non-profit organizations.

Competition in modeling, divided into beginner and advanced categories, is open to boys and girls and features sportswear, dress and costume segments.

Twirling events include solo, fancy strut, military and basic strut, parade majorette, hoop and flag routines. Gymnastics, acrobatics, jazz, tap and ballet dancing, pom pon and cheerleading and vocal and instrumental events, all will be part of the large scale contest, according to Mrs. Yount.

Refreshments, provided by the business women's club, will be available throughout the day. More than 600 young people are expected to take part in the contest, the chairman said.

Offer SIU English courses for special need students

During the fall quarter, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will reserve several sections of freshman English for people with specialized needs, such as adult learners, international students, and specialists in certain disciplines.

According to Betty Richardson, chairman of the department of English language and literature, the needs of continuing education for older adults who have been away from school for a lengthy period and international students arriving on campus who may need help with their writing skills differ significantly from those of 18-year-old freshmen.

Section 29 of English Composition (GSK 101-4) has been set aside for continuing education students. Classes will meet on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays from 1:30 until 2:20 p.m.

Sections 11 and 20 of English Composition (GSK 101-4) have been reserved for students from other countries. Classes for Section 11 will meet from 9:30 until 10:20 a.m. Section 20 classes will meet from 11:30 a.m. until 12:20 p.m. Both sections will meet on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays.

The department of English language and literature will offer a special section of freshman composition for business students, and a section geared toward the nursing profession. Section Four of English Composition (GSK 102-4) will seek to meet the special needs of business majors. This section will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays from 10:30 a.m. until 12:20 p.m.

Section Six of English Composition (GSK 102-4) has been reserved for students pursuing nursing careers. Classes will meet on Mondays, Tuesdays, and Wednesdays from 11:30 a.m. until 12:20 p.m.

The merchant becomes the collector

Judy Stille is a shopkeeper. As such, she runs into all sorts of neat stuff on her many buying trips. On one trip, Mrs. Stille found some things that just may turn the shopkeeper into the hobbist-minutier, tiny little things of the kind that bring out the child in all of us.

There is something about seeing everyday kinds of things made tiny that turns ordinary people into collectors. It could be a holdover from childhood, when little furniture made playing with the dollhouse so much fun for a little girl.

The businesswoman has fallen in love with her wares. The tiny replicas in her General Store, which her father built for her, are fascinating.

The tiny rustic American room is complete, down to the pot belly stove with a coffee pot sitting on top and nearby, a barrel table topped with a checkerboard, with movable pieces.

The furniture is wood, made mostly in the states, with drawers that open. But the things that Mrs. Stille likes best are the tiny dishes, pots, pitchers and the like.

There are china tea pots and beer steins, metal mugs and coffee pots, tiny cooking tools and even a little piggy bank, no bigger than a finger tip, sitting within the little box like room that is the general store.

Mrs. Stille's fun was in putting some of the furniture together and setting up the display that will be in the window of her downtown shop called Tops and Bottoms.

"Putting the furniture together sort of made me feel creative," she said. "I will sell the little things, but there are some that will be hard to part with."

A little family of china dolls, run the general store, and straw baskets hang from hooks on the walls. It looks like the real thing, every detail perfect, only small.

Mrs. Stille has plans for other rooms, including a pioneer bedroom.

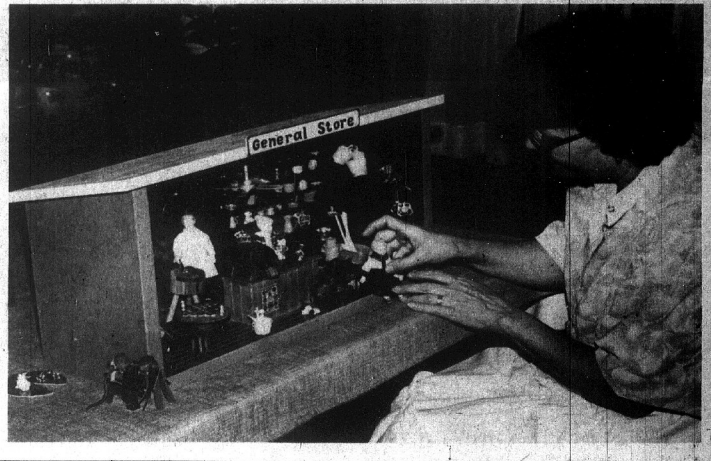

"This miniature business is fun," she said. "If I keep buying this stuff, I'll have to open another store. It's beginning to get crowded at the shop."

SMALL WORLD.

Judy Stille, right, has fallen in love with the little things she has bought for her shop. Setting up the general store was a lot of fun for her. The photo at left gives some idea as to the actual size of some of the small pieces in the room she put together.

IDOC has Hunter Safety Certification Course. Anyone desiring hunter safety certification will be required to attend the entire course of instruction. Charge man in weapon incident

Responding to a call that a fight was taking place and shots had been heard last week, police went to the home of Don W. Naeve, 2540 Cleveland Blvd., and reported finding Naeve involved in an argument with Mike Moesegian, 56, of 3205 Aubrey Ave.

A .38 caliber revolver with five live rounds and one spent round in the chamber was confiscated from Moesegian.

Naeve told officers the incident was a family matter and he refused to sign a complaint.

Moesegian was arrested and charged with discharging a firearm within the city limits. He was released on payment of a $35 cash bond.

Homesickness awaits new college students

Students going away to college for the first time face more problems than tough courses and hard exams, according to the director of the SIUC Counseling Center.

"For some, it's the first time they've been in a situation where they are required to take charge of their own lives and make their own decisions," says Charles Landis, a 48-year-old former campus minister.

"They're under pressure to perform well academically, and at the same time they find themselves in a situation where they have difficulties with social pressures, financial stress and the demands of being an autonomous human being."

Landis summarized the problems of college freshmen as:

- Separation and loss,
- building new social relationships,
- learning to manage one's own life, and
- establishing a system of values and priorities.

"In the excitement of going off to a new community, to a university, and beginning a new phase of life, people are inclined to rush off without paying attention to what it is they're leaving," Landis says.

Only after the excitement of a new place wears off does the student experience the sense of loss commonly called "homesickness," Landis says. Yet college students striving for adulthood won't readily admit to suffering the age-old malaise.

"Rather than to deny those feelings of sadness or loss, it would be better to recognize them as an inevitable part of separation, and then to acknowledge the fact that getting started in a new community and making new friends takes time and attention," Landis says.

To help freshmen adjust to college life, SIUC's counseling center staff conducts special discussion groups and workshops.

Personal development groups bear down on the students' common concerns. They help them over the emotional hurdles by using techniques aimed at reducing stress, improving social skills and boosting assertiveness.

The sessions also provide students with an opportunity to meet other students. Landis said, Individual counseling is offered to students who want to work on their problems in a more private setting.

"Because a college diploma is not an automatic guarantee of a job, and because of the worsening economic and employment climate, students now feel even more pressure to succeed. As a result," Landis says, "students are more serious about academic performance than they were 10 or 20 years ago."

While the squeeze on students has lightened, universities have developed more and more "coping" services.

"It has become generally recognized that counseling centers make a strong, positive contribution to a university."

"Helping students with their emotional problems allows students to function more effectively in the academic community."

Space shuttle Enterprise makes visit here

AFTER A brief flyby over the Quad-City area, the space shuttle Enterprise, atop its carrier Boeing 747, makes its final approach at St. Louis International Airport during the weekend (top photo). At right, a comparison of the shuttle to the enormous jet airliner can be made as civilian and military personnel stand near the bottom of the stairs leading to the carrier craft. Heat shingles used to protect the shuttle when reentering the earth's atmosphere can be seen around the cockpit area of the craft. The shuttle was named the Enterprise after the starship of the same name in the television show "Star Trek." This was one of six stops the shuttle is making before it is returned to Palmdale, Calif., where it will be disassembled at the Rockwell International facilities there. Many of its parts will be used in future shuttles.

Homes still called sound investment

Despite record mortgage interest rates, a home purchased today is still a wise investment and many people believe it represents one of the best inflation hedges available, says Jack Carlson, executive vice president and chief economist of the National Association of Realtors.

"Waiting for interest rates to drop is taking a risky gamble and could cost the buyer thousands of dollars," Carlson said.

"Take the hypothetical case of Peter and Caroline Anderson. They've been scrimping and saving for a down payment for five years. Their last savings deposit brought their account to $10,000.

"They contacted a realtor and in no time found a two-bedroom Cape Cod home that fit the bill. Asking price? $60,000.

"Finding financing wasn't as easy. Like so many home buyers, the Andersons were discouraged at the interest rate they were going to have to pay on their mortgage.

"Current rates being quoted were 11.75 percent. Translated, this means that a $50,000, 30-year loan would require monthly payments for principal and interest of $505.

"By way of comparison, when interest rates were at 8 percent, a similar down payment and mortgage carried a monthly payment of only $462.

"What should the Andersons do? Wait for interest rates to drop, or buy now?

"By all means, buy now," Carlson urged. "Escalating home prices will more than offset any advantage gained from lower interest rates," he said.

"From the way things look now, one year's delay could cost the Andersons roughly $6,000," Carlson added.

"Here's how:

"Over the next year, buyers can expect price increases for single family homes of 8 to 14 percent, placing the median price of a home between $64,800 and $68,400. Certainly, interest rates may drop, but they will probably go no lower than 10.5 percent," Carlson said.

"The Economics and Research Division of the National Association of Realtors is predicting that interest rates will be about 11 to 11.5 percent in 1980.

"If the Andersons waited until rates dropped to 11 percent and, in the meantime, home prices increased 8 percent, they would end up paying $17 more per month.

"Over the 30-year life of the loan, the higher monthly payment would cost them a total of $6,120.

"A saving on monthly payments would result if home prices increased by only 8 percent and interest rates dropped to 10.5 percent. Even then, the savings would be only $3.43 a month.

"Other inflation statistics offer an even more compelling argument for buying now," Carlson said.

"In the past decade, the price of a home has risen by 124 percent. In other words, if a home was purchased for $28,000 ten years ago, it would be worth roughly $63,000 on today's market.

"If this trend continues, the same home 10 years from now would be priced at about $141,000.

"Another way to look at it: the median price of a home nationally is about $55,900.

Youth steals cash from box

An employee at Mr. B's store, 2041 Johnson Road, reported at 6:10 p.m. Friday that a youth came to the service window, ordered a sandwich and when she left the window he apparently reached inside and stole between $20 and $30 from the money box.

While filling the order, she heard a noise as if someone hit the window. She went to the front of the store to find the youth had gone and the cash was missing, the woman told police.

The youth was about 13 or 14 years old, about five feet, one inch tall, weighing between 110 and 115 pounds and slim. He had brown hair, parted in the center and worn over the ears.

495 receive supplemental security pay

There are currently 495 residents of Granite City receiving supplemental security income (SSI) benefits. Many people in the Madison County area are not aware that the SSI program makes monthly payments to needy people who are 65 or over, or blind, or disabled, a spokesman said today.

The idea behind SSI is to provide a monthly income, when it is needed, so that people who are eligible have a basic cash income.

Starting in July 1979, the basic federal payment is $208.20 for an eligible individual and $312.30 for an eligible couple.

Not everyone can receive this amount. Some get less because they have other income. People who have little or no regular income and who do not own much property or other items that can be turned into cash may be eligible for SSI payments.

An individual may have up to $1,500 ($2,250 for a couple) in assets and still be eligible for SSI.

A home the person lives in, an automobile of reasonable value, and personal effects or household goods have no bearing on eligibility.

Registration for park pre-school Aug. 22

The Granite City Park District will have pre-school registration on Wednesday, Aug. 22 beginning at 9 a.m. registration will be at the Wilson Park office. This is for the fall session beginning Sept. 17.

Parents interested in enrolling their child in these classes must do so in person and present proof of residence, such as a current utility bill with their name and address on it and the child's birth certificate. A child must be four years old before Oct. 1, 1979, in order to qualify for the fall session.

Classes will be limited to 35 children per class and enrollment will be on a first-come, first-served basis. There will be three classes starting in September and a new class will be formed in January for those children turning four years old before Feb. 1, 1979. The time and date for registration for the January Session will be announced in December.

Anyone living out of the Granite City Park District will be placed on a waiting list and will be notified on the first day of school if there will be openings.

Classes will meet at the Nameeki Recreation Center, Franklin and Amos avenues with morning classes being held from 9:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. and afternoon classes from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m. There is an insurance charge of $5 per child and a small fee for orange drink and cookies charged daily.

For more information Quad-Cityans may call the Granite City Park District Office 877-3059. Instructors for the pre-school classes are Mrs. Rosemarie Lindner and Mrs. Cheryl Humphreys.

Applications being taken for assessment reductions

Quad-City area residents who own or are purchasing the single-family homes they occupy are being urged to apply before Oct. 15 for a reduction in the assessed valuation of their homes which will reduce their tax bills next summer.

Under Senate Bill 1790, designed to help offset increases in assessment through reassessments and multipliers, allowed reductions in the 1979 assessment to the 1977 level, with a maximum reduction of $1,500.

Persons who signed up last summer for the assessment reduction must renew their applications before Oct. 15 of this year.

The assessment reduction should not be confused with the Homestead Exemption which is available to home owners 65 years old or older who reside in single-family homes they own or are purchasing.

Up to $1,500 in Homestead Exemptions is available to senior citizens in addition to the $1,500 assessment reduction now being offered. Homestead Exemptions must be renewed each January.

Residents of Granite City Township may apply for the reduction under Senate Bill 1790 now through Oct. 15 at the office of Assessor Von Dee Cruse in the township building at 2090 Delmar Ave. Information sheets and application forms are being distributed to residents of Chouteau Township and may be mailed directly to James W. Barton, Madison County supervisor of assessments, Madison County Courthouse, Edwardsville, Ill., 62025. Forms also are available at the Chouteau Town Hall behind the Midwest Motel on the access road north of Interstate 270 at Route 203 north (Old Alton Road).

Nameoki Township residents may obtain the application forms for the reduction at the township hall, 4250 Highway 192, and will be aided in completing them. Nameoki Township residents will be requested to mail their own forms to Barton's office.

Residents of Venice Township may obtain the forms at the assessor's office at 422 Madison Ave., Madison, and will be aided in completing the form. The township will mail the forms for the residents, or they may mail their own forms to Edwardsville.

Information which will be necessary when completing the application includes the 15-digit parcel identification number which may be found on any recent tax bill. Officials are warning that use of the tax bill number, rather than the 15-digit parcel identification number may result in the application being voided, so they urge that caution be used when taking the number from the tax bill.

The application also has blanks for the 1977 assessed valuation (1977 is the "base year" for the four-year reduction program) and for the 1979 assessed valuation, which is not yet determined.

Residents are asked to leave the 1979 assessed valuation blank, but to put the 1977 assessed valuation on the form, if homeowners can find it. Otherwise, county officials will fill in both assessed valuations, collectors have been told.

Hospice care program delayed to September

The Hospice care program, which was scheduled to get underway in late July, has been delayed until September, according to Nina Millett, program coordinator.

Hospice is the management of terminally ill patients in such a way that patients are able to remain at home with their families under constant care until death.

"There is still a lot of groundwork that has to be laid," according to Mrs. Millett. Another reason for the delay is shortage of funds. Several organizations have promised to or have already donated funds to the program, and patient care will begin in mid-September. Hospice enables a patient to stay at home with his family in familiar surroundings and stay relatively free of pain.

Each family will have a trained team of volunteers, social workers, nurses, clergy and doctors to provide in-home care. Volunteers have participated in a training session and another series of training programs may be scheduled for the fall, due to increasing interest in the Hospice program.

Dr. Shabbir Salfar is the chairman of the board and the medical director of the program. According to Mrs. Millett, patients will be referred by him to an admissions committee to determine which patients will be chosen for in-home patient care.

Three to five families will be chosen at the beginning. Those who have the greatest needs will be taken first. Ability to pay will not be a factor.

The Hospice of Madison County program is patterned after the program in New Haven, Conn., the most successful in-home patient care program in the U.S. Several programs in the U.S. also have in-patient care at hospitals. "Our philosophy is that most of the patients would prefer to stay at home, so that is what we want to provide," said Mrs. Millett.

Youths found near bonfire

After receiving reports from residents that a large bonfire was burning at Stearns Park, Amos and Franklin avenues, police went to that location and found three youths allegedly drinking beer while seated by the fire last week.

An officer extinguished the fire and confiscated three full cans of beer and a small cooler from the trio. Charged with being minors in possession of alcohol were Tim Jones, 17, of 2039 Pontoon Road, and two 15-year-old youths.

All three were released to their parents about an hour later after paying a $35 cash bond.

TRUCK IS TAKEN

A three-quarter ton delivery truck was stolen from the loading dock at National Auto Supply, 1843 Madison Ave., during the weekend, it was discovered Monday. The truck is a 1974 Ford with a white cab and aluminum box frame enclosure on the bed. An electric welder belonging to a customer was inside the truck.

HOMESTEAD ENTERTAINERS.

Howard Bolton and The Kountry Beats will play for the evening street dance which will conclude Homestead Day activities. The popular, country-western group of local musicians will be expanded to five pieces for the event. Homestead Day, to be held in downtown Granite City on Saturday, Sept. 15, will feature an arts and craft fair, food, beverages and miscellaneous concessions and a day-long schedule of free entertainment. The street dance will be held on 19th Street between Edison and Delmar avenues from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Air base show 'biggest ever'

This year's Open House at Scott Air Force Base promises to be the largest and best ever produced, say base officials.

The U.S. Air Force Aerial Demonstration Team, the Thunderbirds, are the featured attraction, but there will be much more. Enough events and activities to guarantee a fun-filled day for everyone, even if they don't like airplanes, officials said.

The Open House is slated for 9:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m., Saturday.

Early arrivals can enjoy the sound of "Shades of Blue," an 18-piece jazz band made up of Air Force members. The Shades of Blue play the entire spectrum of jazz — from Dixieland to the "swing" style of the late Glenn Miller, to the contemporary beat of Maynard Ferguson. The group will perform from 10-11 a.m., and from 1:30-2:15 p.m.

At 9:30 a.m. and 2:20 p.m., the "Wings of Blue," the U.S. Air Force Academy's parachute demonstration team, will jump from Air Force aircraft, freefall, then begin a series of maneuvers in a thrilling display of non-powered airship.

The Wings of Blue demonstrate their aerial skills and landing accuracy about 20 times a year before 400,000-500,000 spectators.

These Cadets have dominated intercollegiate parachute competition since 1968 by winning the overall school championship title six times.

Members of the 375th Security Police Squadron Military Working Dog Section will demonstrate the prowess of their patrol dogs at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. The dogs will be put through their paces demonstrating basic obedience, attack methods, reactions to gunfire (blanks for the demonstration), searches and prisoner escort.

Civilian groups aren't left out of Open House plans, and many will have exhibits, including the Spirit of St. Louis and the Gateway Chapter of the International Plastic Model Society.

Even those interested in dancing won't be left out. The Galaxy Twirlers and Cadence Cloggers will give square dancing demonstrations.

In addition, two military retiree affairs briefings will be held at 10 and 11 a.m. in the base theater.

And those who do like airplanes won't be disappointed. So far, 17 Air Force, four Navy and 14 civilian aircraft are scheduled for display. Some will give demonstrations and most will be open for public inspection.

Base officials say even more aircraft may arrive for the show; but, as of this week the tentative list includes: the F-111, A-1 Cobra, F-14, C-130 ARIA Satellite Tracker, A-10, S-3 and the Scott stationed C-9A, CT-39 and C-140.

Attendance at the base's annual Open Houses has grown each year since 1918. More than 70,000 attended in 1978 and base officials expect this year's crowd to reach 100,000 or more.

Public aid asks 'comments'

The Illinois Department of Public Aid is inviting public comments on its Fiscal Year 1980 Human Services Plan, conducted under Section 7(a) of Public Law 79-1035, Welfare and Rehabilitation Services Act. Any major changes brought about due to comments received will be described in an additional plan amendment.

Copies of the plan are available for review by contacting the Department of Public Aid either by telephone or in writing. Illinois Department of Public Aid, Planning and Program Development Section, 316 South Second St., Springfield, Ill. 62762; Telephone 217-785-0754.

BATTERY ALLEGED

Steven K. Sexton, 18, of 2731 Warren Ave., was arrested at 11 p.m. Monday and was charged with battery in a complaint signed by the father of 15-year-old Manuel Foschatti, 2815 E. 25th St. It is alleged Sexton tried to break up a quarrel between Foschatti and another boy and Sexton struck Foschatti, knocked him to the ground and then kicked him. Foschatti was treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center for a split lip and abrasions to his forehead and face and was released. Sexton was freed on $35 cash bond.

Arrest follows 'cycle accident'

Terry L. Crouch, 21, of 2908 Kirkpatrick Homes, was charged at 12:35 a.m. Sunday with leaving the scene of an accident and disorderly conduct, the latter involving the alleged filing of a false police report.

The charges stemmed from an incident which began at 2:30 a.m. Saturday when Edward A. Benko, 2500 Nameoki Drive, told police his motorcycle had stalled on 14th Street near Grand Avenue, and he was trying to start it when a vehicle without headlights ran into the motorcycle and left the scene, reports said.

Benko reportedly sustained a minor injury. At 2:45 a.m. Saturday, Crouch notified police that his 1970 green Dodge had been stolen from the Plaza Mall, 2490 Nameoki Road.

An officer spotted Crouch's vehicle at 10:45 p.m. Saturday in the 1600 block of Edison Avenue.

A woman who resides in that block said early that morning two men and two women walking along the street had asked her to give them a ride home as their car had broken down. She said she dropped them off at Edwards and Charles streets about 2:45 a.m.

Crouch was brought to police headquarters at 10:30 p.m. Saturday and charged a short time later.

Programs for disadvantaged attended well

Over 210 disadvantaged youths, ages 10 to 18, participated in the National Youth Sports Program held at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville this summer, according to Kent DeMars, program director.

The program included athletic instruction in swimming, boating, tennis, track and field, softball, volleyball, basketball and soccer. The youths also participated in an enrichment program in career opportunities, health and other educational areas.

"Many needy and underprivileged young people are aided by the National Youth Sports Program which provides sports training, athletic competition and exposure to the benefits of higher education," DeMars said. The program was funded by a $37,000 grant and was a joint effort of the Community Services administration, the National Collegiate Athletic Association and SIUE.

WHITE SNAKEROOT: August and early September is the time White Snakeroot can be a problem in wooded pastures in Madison County.

White Snakeroot is the most common plant poisonous to livestock in Madison County. Snakeroot thrives in shaded areas. Cattle and other livestock usually will not eat it. Snakeroot or other weedy plants unless there is little other vegetation available.

With the series of late summer rains in Madison County, we may have better than normal vegetative growth this fall in pastures.

If your livestock have access to a wooded pasture, check the area for White Snakeroot. Cattle, sheep and horses can be affected. Snakeroot seems to be a greater problem with horses than either cattle or sheep.

White Snakeroot is an erect, branched, fibrous, rooted perennial plant that ranges from 1 to 5 feet tall. The plant has white flowers that appear in August. The leaves of the plant have three prominent veins originating from the base.

The best control is to eliminate the brush from the pasture and return the pasture to a sunny open area. If that is not possible, weed killers can be used. A heavy application of 2,4-D in the spring when this weed is 10 to 18 inches tall will eliminate the top growth as well as much of the root system. Occasionally, some regrowth will require treatment later in the season. Treatment in the late summer after the white blossoms appear will be less effective than early spring treatment.

Social Security numbers no longer easy to obtain

Let's face it - social security numbers are no longer easy to obtain. You may remember when you obtained your first social security card. You may have picked up a form at the local Post Office, mailed it in and received a card in about four weeks or you may have visited a local social security office and was handed a card immediately.

But, growing concern about improper use of social security cards has forced the Social Security Administration to tighten the rules for obtaining a new or duplicate social security card.

The social security law now requires that you furnish evidence of age, identity and U.S. citizenship or lawful admission status when you apply for a social security number. If you are 18 or older you must apply in person for your first card.

A variety of documents can be submitted as evidence of age, identity and citizenship. A birth certificate or a church record of birth or baptism recorded before your fifth birthday is preferred as proof of age and place of birth. Evidence of identity may include one of the following: driver's license, school identification card, report card, marriage record, voter's registration, work badge, credit card or any other document that shows either your signature or photograph. Do not submit photocopies. The Social Security Administration will not accept photocopies unless they are certified.

If you want to have your name changed on your social security record, you must show proof of name change. This can be accomplished by submitting a marriage record, divorce decree, or court order for name change.

If you are over 18, you can replace a lost or stolen card by mailing proof of age, identity and an Application for a Social Security Number to the Social Security Administration, 650 Missouri Ave., East St. Louis, IL 62201. To obtain an application, call 274-4100 or Toll Free number Enterprise 1-555.

A social security representative will be at the Recreation room of Anchorage Homes every second and fourth Tuesday, 9:30 a.m. to 12 to assist you in filing for a new or duplicate social security number.

TREATED AT HOSPITAL Mavis Brown, 21, of 1225 Madison Ave., was treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center during the weekend for multiple bruises to the right wrist and right knee as well as released. She incurred the injuries in a motorcycle accident.

Breaks window to jewelry store

Nothing is known missing after the window to a display case at Hudson Jewelry, 19th and State streets, was smashed early this week and a young man fled from the area carrying a paper bag. Witnesses reported they heard glass break and looked to see a man about 6 feet tall, weighing about 175 pounds and having dark curly hair reach in a broken window at the jewelry store and then run from the scene. They said he had an emblem or lettering on the front of his black T-shirt in the shape of a circle.

Police found a three-foot-square window had been broken in a display area.

KICK DOOR OPEN

A door at the home of Wayne Klinger, 95 Briarhaven Drive, was kicked open and the frame was damaged between 7:30 and 11 a.m. Tuesday. Nothing inside the home appeared to have been disturbed and nothing is known missing.

Radar arrest results in other charges

An officer operating a radar unit on Madison Avenue at 30th Street reported seeing an auto allegedly traveling fast, followed by a motorcycle, at 9:50 p.m. Friday.

Both vehicles were stopped and the motorcycleist said he was following the auto in an attempt to get its license number as the driver allegedly had struck a parked auto in the 2400 block of Madison Avenue.

Operating the auto was Dennis L. Lloyd, 18, of 2836 W. 22nd St., who accompanied police back to the scene of the accident, but said he didn't remember hitting the car, a 1967 Chevrolet.

Red paint marks, however, allegedly were found on the front of Lloyd's white Dodge.

In Lloyd's vehicle, police alleged finding an open can of beer and 31 full cans of beer in a cooler on the rear seat.

Lloyd was charged with speeding 52 mph in a 35 mph zone, illegal transportation of alcohol and leaving the scene of an accident.

He was released upon posting his driver's license and a $70 cash bond.

At 11:05 p.m. Friday, Lloyd was seen walking toward his parked car at 30th Street and Madison Avenue and appeared to be drinking something from a brown paper sack, police reported.

He was stopped by an officer on the sidewalk near his vehicle and found to have four full cans of beer and one empty can in the sack, it was alleged.

He was rearrested and charged with public consumption of alcohol and using a minor in possession of alcohol.

Lloyd was released again at 2:05 a.m. Saturday on payment of a $70 cash bond.

COOKIE THEIF

A case of cookies and 12 packages of cookies were discovered missing at 5:30 a.m. Monday from a Flavor-Kist truck, parked at 1332 State St., Madison. Entry was gained by breaking a lock. One box of cookies was found on the rear bumper and several packages of cookies were found behind a building.

Purchasing land for sewer office

The Madison County special sewer committee has agreed to purchase one acre of land on Route 111 near the east end of Pontoon Road for construction of a sewer billing office and storage building. The purchase must be finalized by the Madison County Board.

The land will be purchased from the Pontoon Beach Village Board at a cost of $14,500 and plans for development of the site will be shared by the committee and the village board so the sewer buildings will be similar in architecture to a community center building the village hopes to construct nearby. It also is hoped the sewer district facilities and village facilities can utilize the same access road from Route 111.

Attorney Harry Hartman was authorized to prepare the necessary purchase documents for consideration by the Madison County Board.

In other business, the board discussed the possibility of deleting a total of six homes from those to receive sewer service since one homeowner in the 5100 block of Maryville Road has refused to grant an easement.

Ed Juneau, engineer for the sewer project, said it would be economically unfeasible to service the other four lots without an easement through the property of the homeowner who is objecting to the proposed route of the sewer.

To file condemnation proceedings against the homeowner for the easement would take too much time and would require construction crews to return to the area after they had already moved to other areas, the committee was told.

No official action was taken on the matter as Chairman Louis Whitsell indicated he feels other alternatives to deleting sewers to the four homes should be considered.
